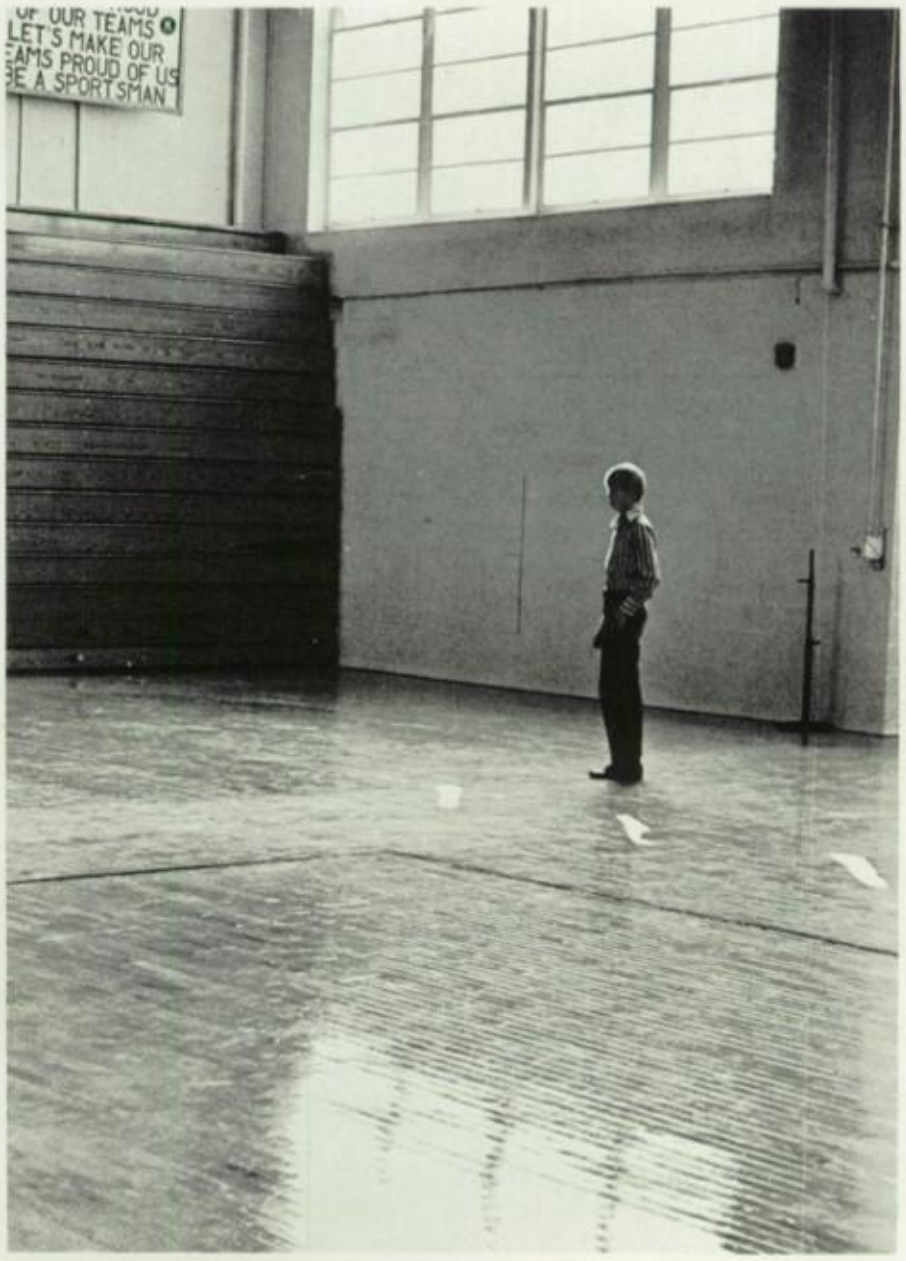
Reflections . . .



reflections . . .
of the many who came before us,
who, like ourselves,
questioned
and learned, laughed and loved
reflections . . .
of ourselves as we struggle to secure the dreams of reality,
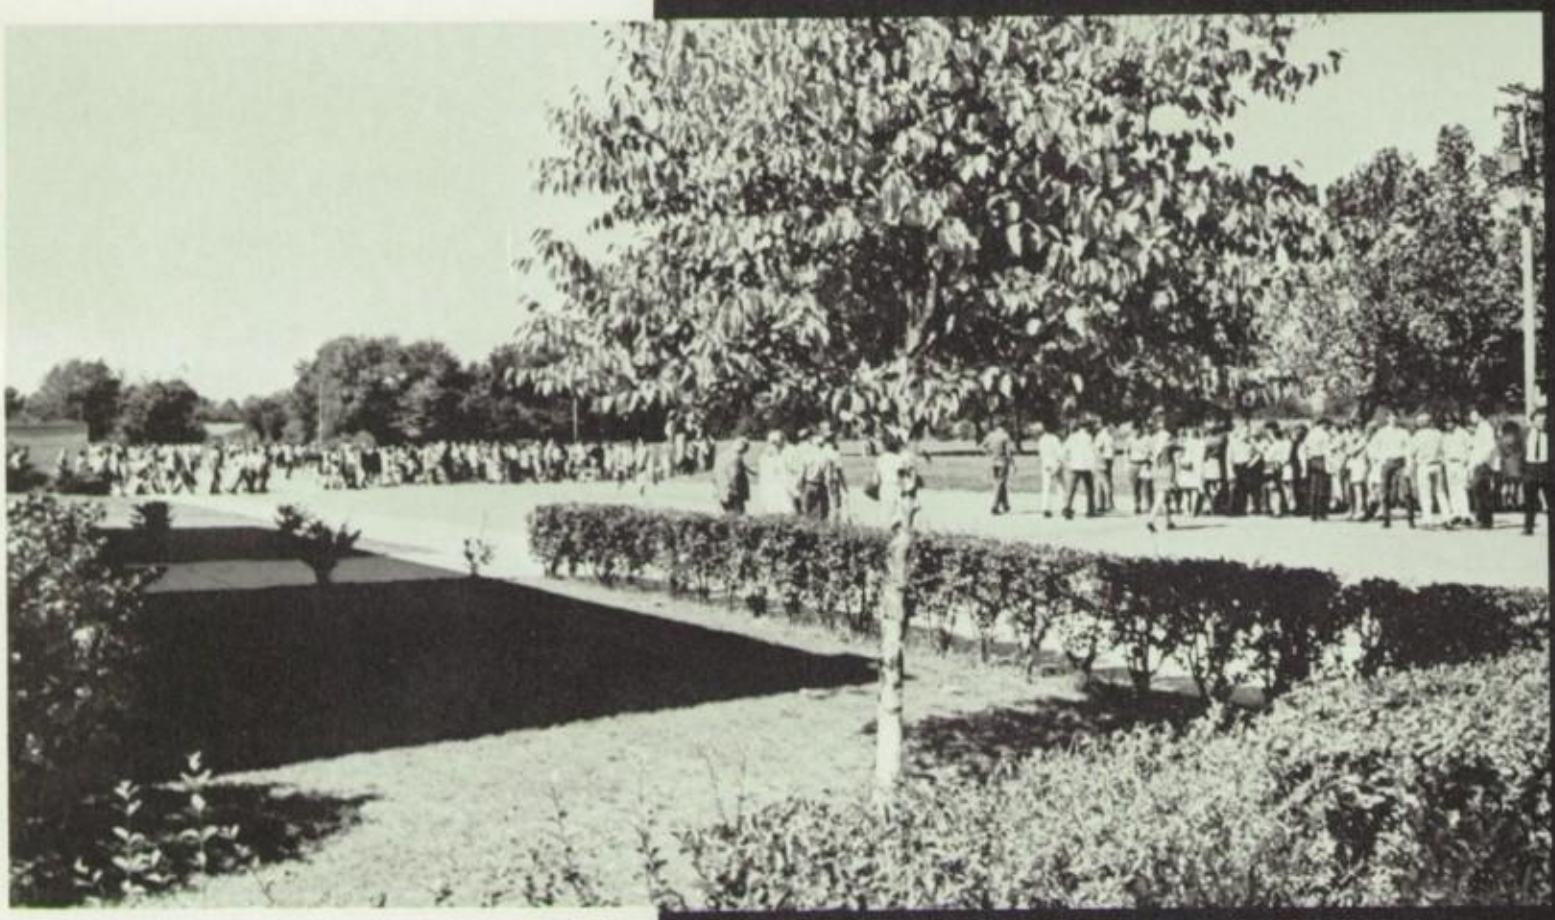
a purpose for our lives,
the courage to be individuals

reflections . . .
of a future as challenging as the times,
as changing as the decade
as charged as the Age



Of the many . . .

People . . .
who observe and conclude,
strive and reason
the students of Honey Creek .
this is where we labored and learned and for a while this was part of us

Who are one

Student Life

Often when I am lonely and lost,
I am surprised to find that there is someone who cares.
Someone I can share with a bit of myself
a part of my hopes a touch of my dreams.
Someone who will stop and talk and laugh and care . . .
with me
And because I am myself and he is himself
We are friends.

Jamboree, chaos of first days, mark beginnin

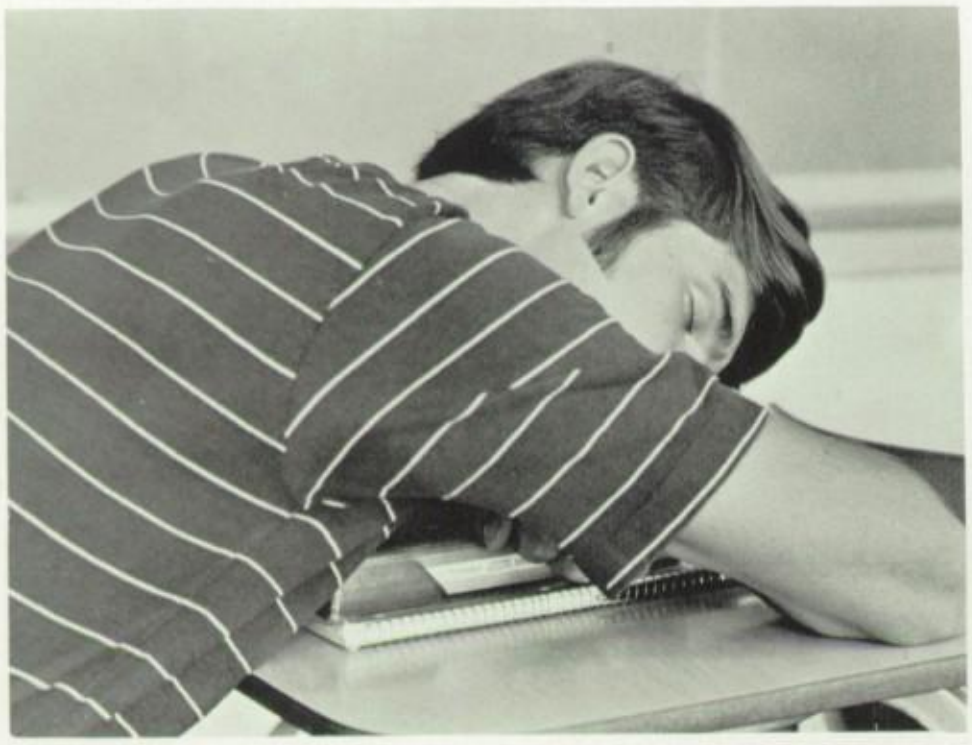
The final football jamboree was held two weeks before school officially opened. It did not, however, dampen the spirit displayed as the competing teams battled for recognition. The South was victorious with Honey Creek defeating West Vigo 6-0.

On September 9, HC opened its doors to a student body with a record enrollment of 875. The first days were spent searching for lockers, classes and old friends. A routine was established as students adapted themselves to the crowded conditions.

Underclassmen as well as seniors were granted an hour lunch. To compensate for this last privilege, seniors were given the first twenty-five minutes to get through the line while the underclassmen waited. It sometimes did not work out that way. For the remainder of the hour students were free to use the library, gym or to go outside when weather permitted.



Senior Bruce Willham finds government exhausting.

Adjusting to concentration becomes routine.

After a hectic morning, students take time out for a well deserved break during lunch.

Sharing lockers again became a reality to Melissa Berry, Carla Bischoff and Penny Brown.

Rusty Whitkanack races the bell to class.

Doors close at HC High school for the last time and reopen to the new junior high. Students can look back and think: The school was closed, but the reflections remain.

Queen Ann Thomas reigns as Honey Creek celebrate

Crown bearer Ronny Larkin and flower girl Angela Smith.

Dressed in the coronation colors of navy and light blue is sophomore attendant Janet Hubbard. Her escorts are Joe Woods and Dave Knight.

final football homecoming

The joyous crowning of football homecoming Queen Ann Thomas followed by the court's fire truck ride to the bonfire added excitement to the two-day festivities. The theme of the dance was "A Time for Memories" with music provided by the Honey Dreamers. The court was escorted by varsity football players with other players forming the honor guard. The court was introduced during half time ceremonies at the homecoming game against West Vigo. A dance followed the game with music by Goliath.

Joy is evident in Ann's face as she is announced queen.

Senior Gay Pettebone with escorts Dale Tooloose and Jim Norris.

Tense moments of the West Vigo game are felt by everyone present.

Freshman Terri Williams and escorts Bob Corenflos, Pete Stoehr.

for Honey Creeks's final play production

Tom Price as Bishop Sherwood, restates the charges of heresy against Reverend Spence while Brian Willig looks on intently.

The Speech and Drama club presented Honey Creek's final play, ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN, a situation comedy by Hartzell Spence. The lighthearted story centers around a minister and his family as they battle to overcome the many problems facing them in the new parsonage. Humorous complications arise as the reverend attempts to organize his domain.

Director Warren Brewer cast Greg Ragle as Reverend Spence and Chella Johnson as his wife, Hope. Tony Meyers played the part of young Hartzell Spence while Patti Mail portrayed his sister, Eileen. Judy Thompson as the boy-crazy Letty and Judy Sisson as a meddling member of the congregation, Mrs. Bigdy, supplied added humor for this comedy.

Warren Brewer gives last minute instructions during the dress rehearsal.

"I'll take you up on that!" says Tony Myers, as Penny promises to someday let him walk her home.

Part-time jobs furnish new responsibilities

Locating hard to find books keeps public library assistant Pam Milam on her toes.

When not working at the cinema, Denise and Janice Miller visit Fred Pugh and see the latest movie.

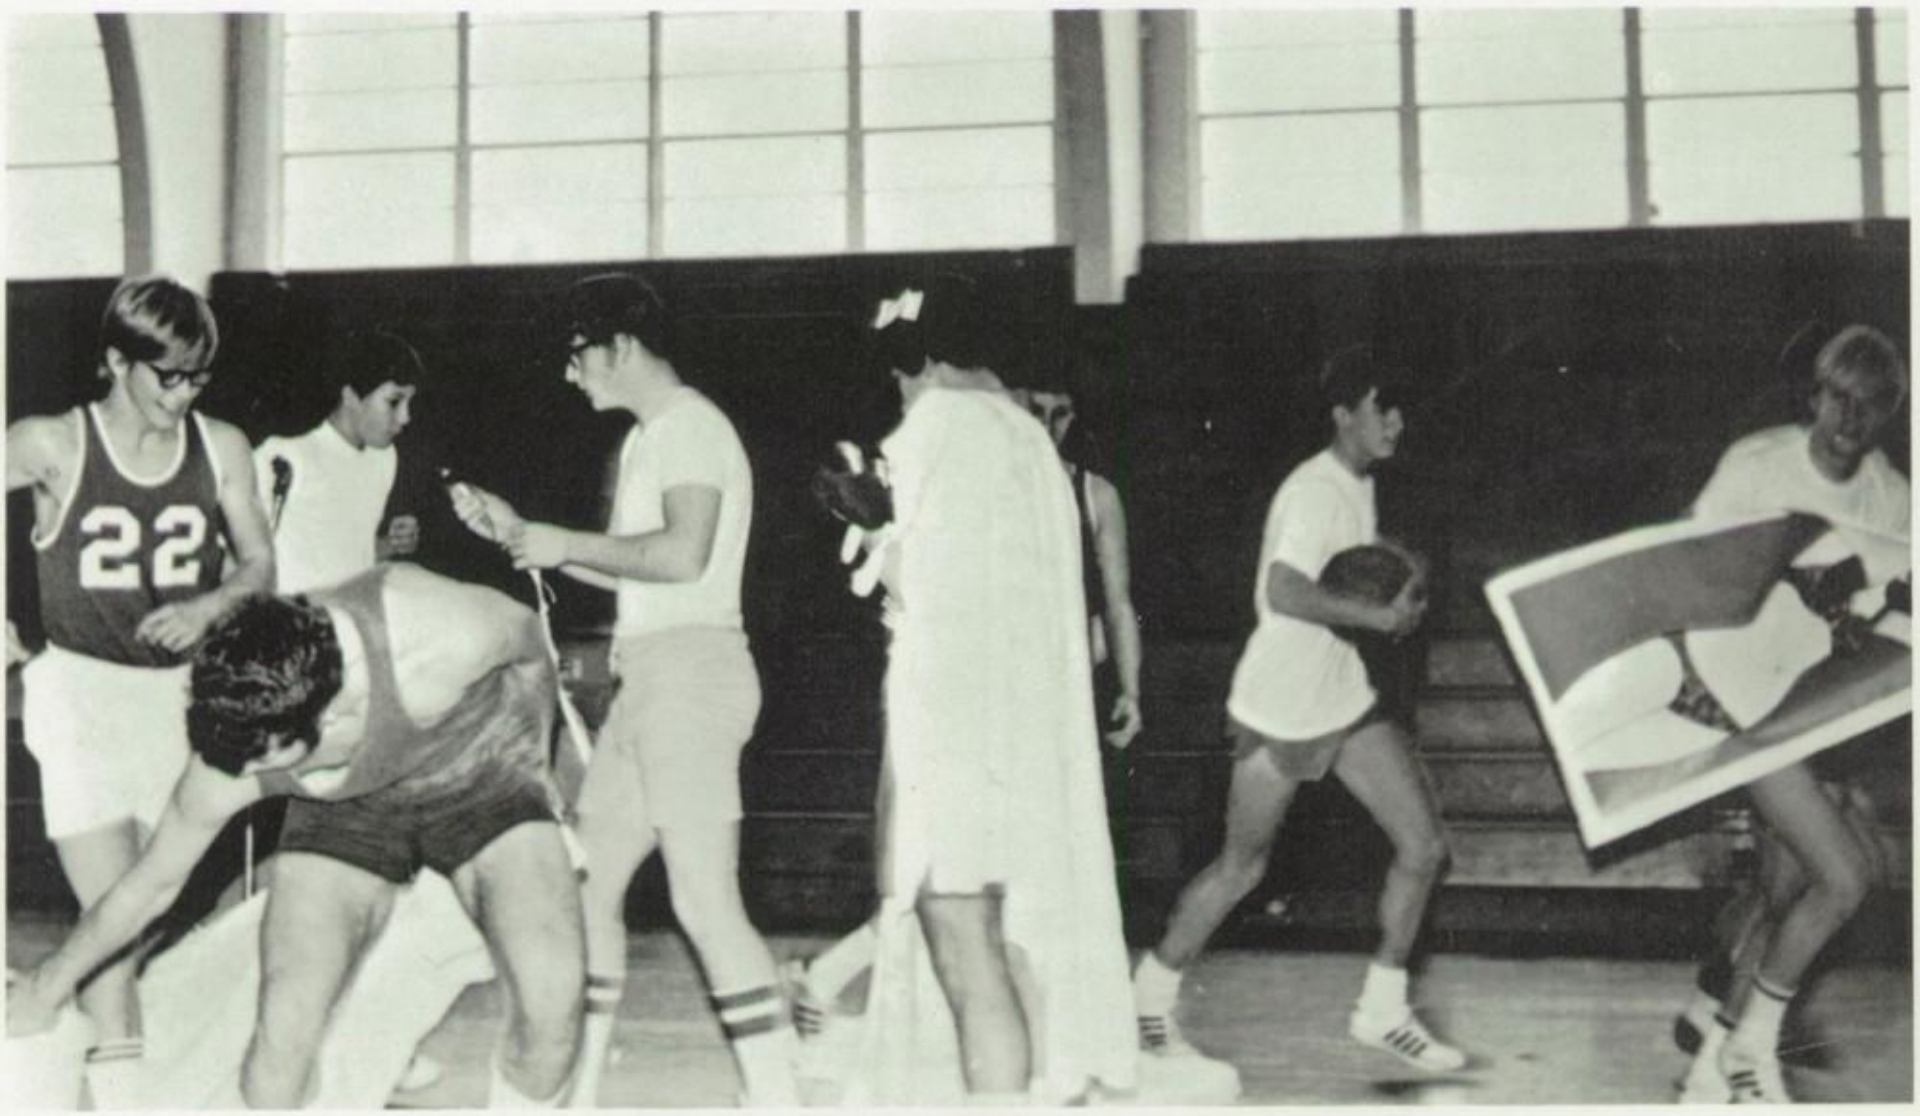
Keeping the coffee hot and the ice cream cold busy Dennis Cook as he tries to please the customers.

Clearing carts from the parking lot is one of the many duties of grocery store employee Jack Lore.

Convos provide music, information, entertainment and spirit

Delighting students with popular and inspirational songs, the nationally known Caldwell family jogs to the beat of "Spinning Wheel."

Re-creating the "Twelve Days of Basketball Practice," HC boys ignite Bee spirit for the confrontation with Tech.



Arousing spirit for the Sullivan game, Key Club entertains students with a satire of "Bonanza." During a commercial, Richard Stiff verifies the need for Right Guard. Dan Debard, Gary Smith and Scott Lycon agree.

Cadet Gary Dennis informs interested boys about the opportunities at West Point.

ISU Women's Glee Club returns to perform a choral program of hit tunes.

Carla Bischoff crowned Queen of victorious Basketball

Escorts Dave Cole and Jim Ludlow assist Queen Carla with the arrangement of her royal cloak.

Flowergirl Jennifer LaFollette and crownbearer Ronny Keegan carry on coronation tradition.

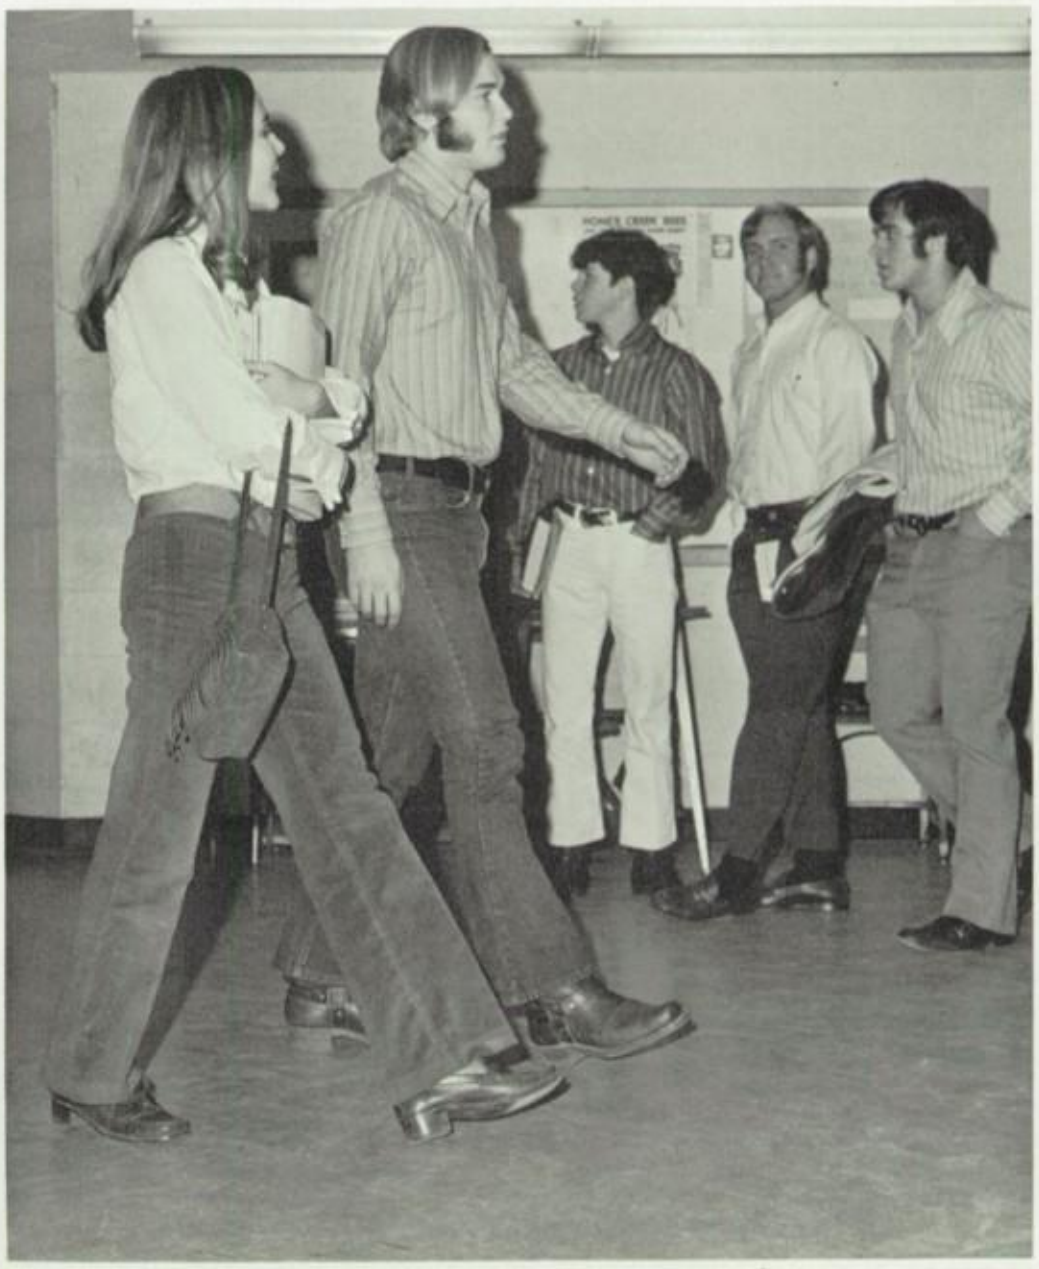
evening were Student Senate escorts Gregg Migaki, Eric Woodward, Steve Parvis, Robert Little, Ed Bennett, Brian Willig, Will Gates and Dan Zuerner.

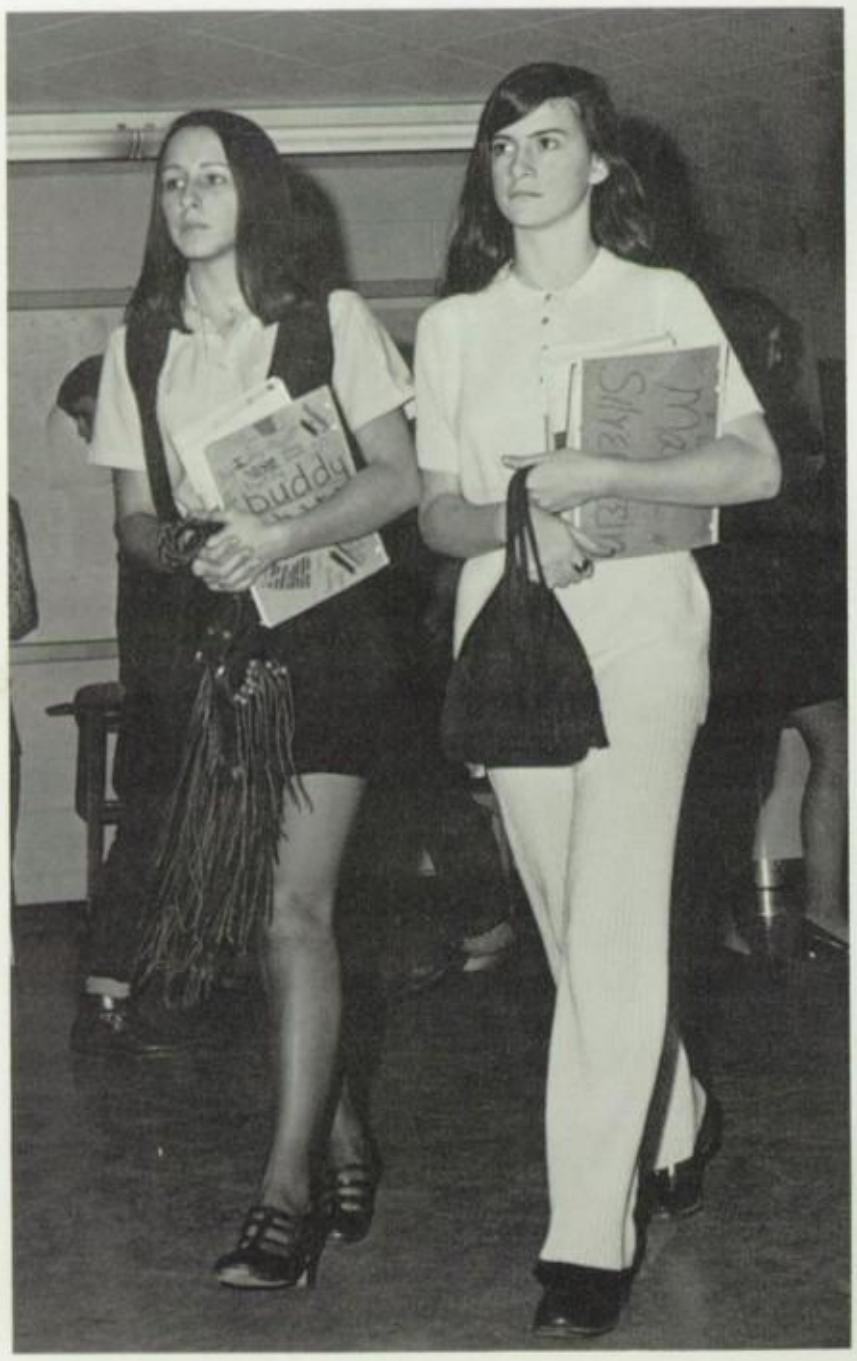
After winning the crown, Queen Carla Bischoff receives time-honored kiss from Coach Neff and applause from the audience.

New styles and freedoms follow dress code revision

During a special fashion show, Rita Richardson raises a question about jeans which reduces everyone to laughter.



Womens equality confuses the males as Gayla Welton and Steve Bailey go by.



Sexy Sheila exhibits individuality with gauchos and boots.

HC and Wiley faculties clash in comic basketball game

Facing Wiley in "fierce" competition, the faculties met in a hilarious display of ball control and mischievous tactics.

The first half saw Wiley ahead, but the score was tied at 56 during the third quarter. In the fourth quarter HC concentrated on its clever maneuvers while Wiley became bent on winning. The good-natured Bees finished the game with the 64-59 score in favor of Wiley.

Preparing to face the opposition, the faculty gives the audience a look at their "professional" appearance.

Backing the ferocious faculty, the cheerleaders add the feminine touch to an evening of fun.

Mr. Rochelein makes his move for another HC goal.

Rallying the team, Mrs. Weddle shouts encouragement.

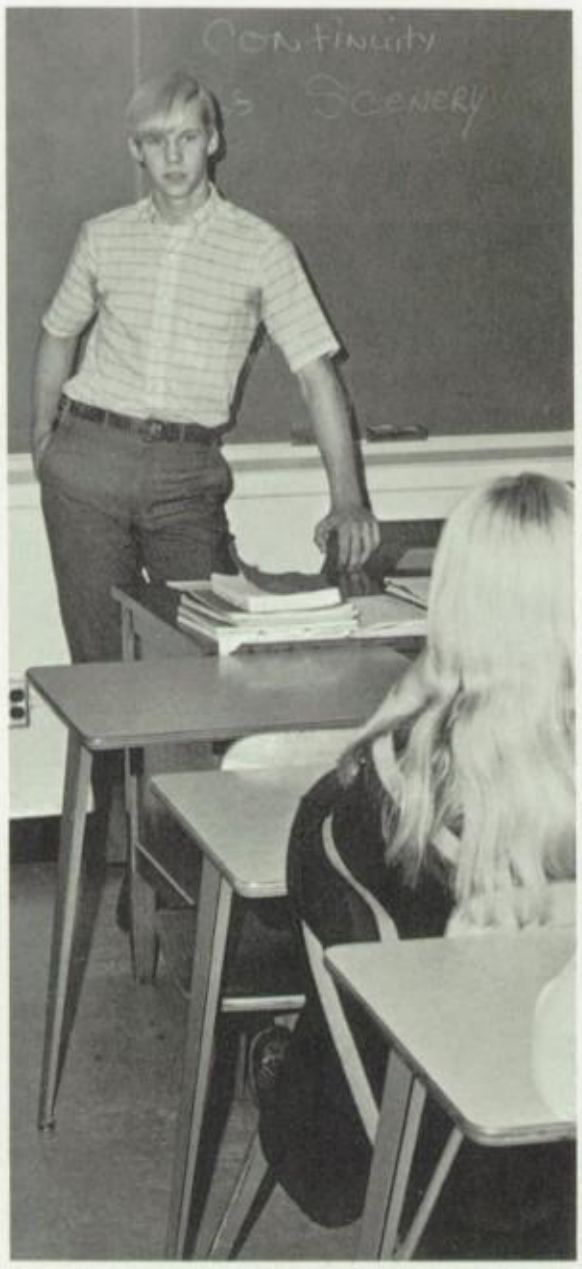
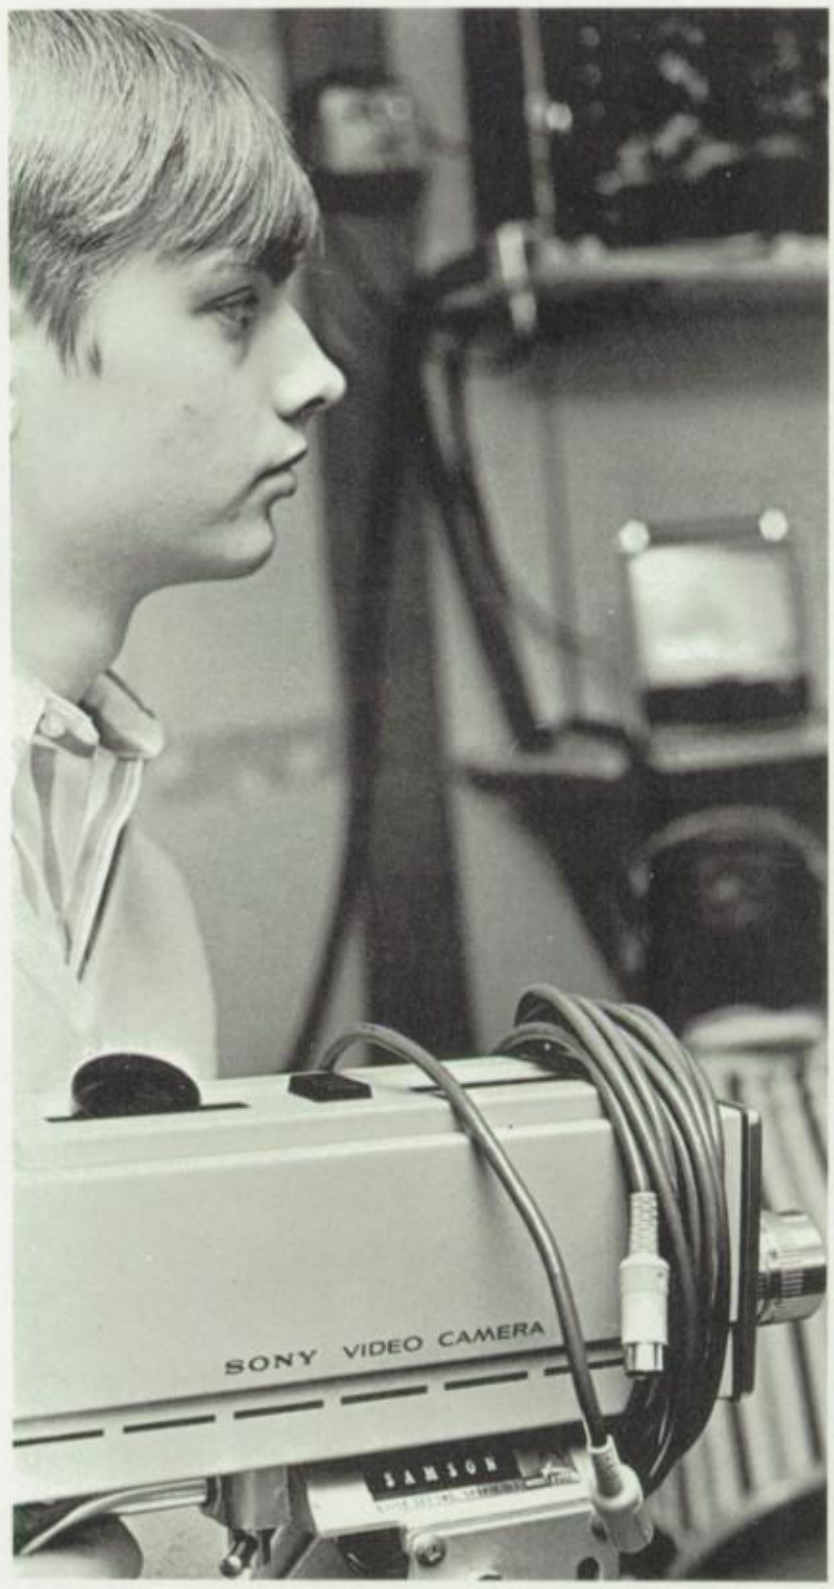
English students learn grammar; evaluate symbolic writings



Studying speech, John Turk develops his delivery.

English is required of every student for at least three years. The senior year is an elective concerned primarily with preparing the student for college. Closed circuit TV was widely used on all levels. Films were shown to enhance and clarify such works as OEDIPUS REX, HUCKLEBERRY FINN, and TOM JONES. Documentaries were also taped and shown.

Freshmen receive grammar instruction and are introduced to Shakespeare by studying ROMEO AND JULIET. Mr. Jarmen's sophomore class gained experience taping, writing, and acting when they did a take-off on late evening programs. Juniors studied creative writing as well as American authors and novels.



Displaying a new English tool, Fred Pugh uses video equipment.

Steve Goodwin checks out a book from Jan Peterson.

Insight and reasoning strengthened through mathematics

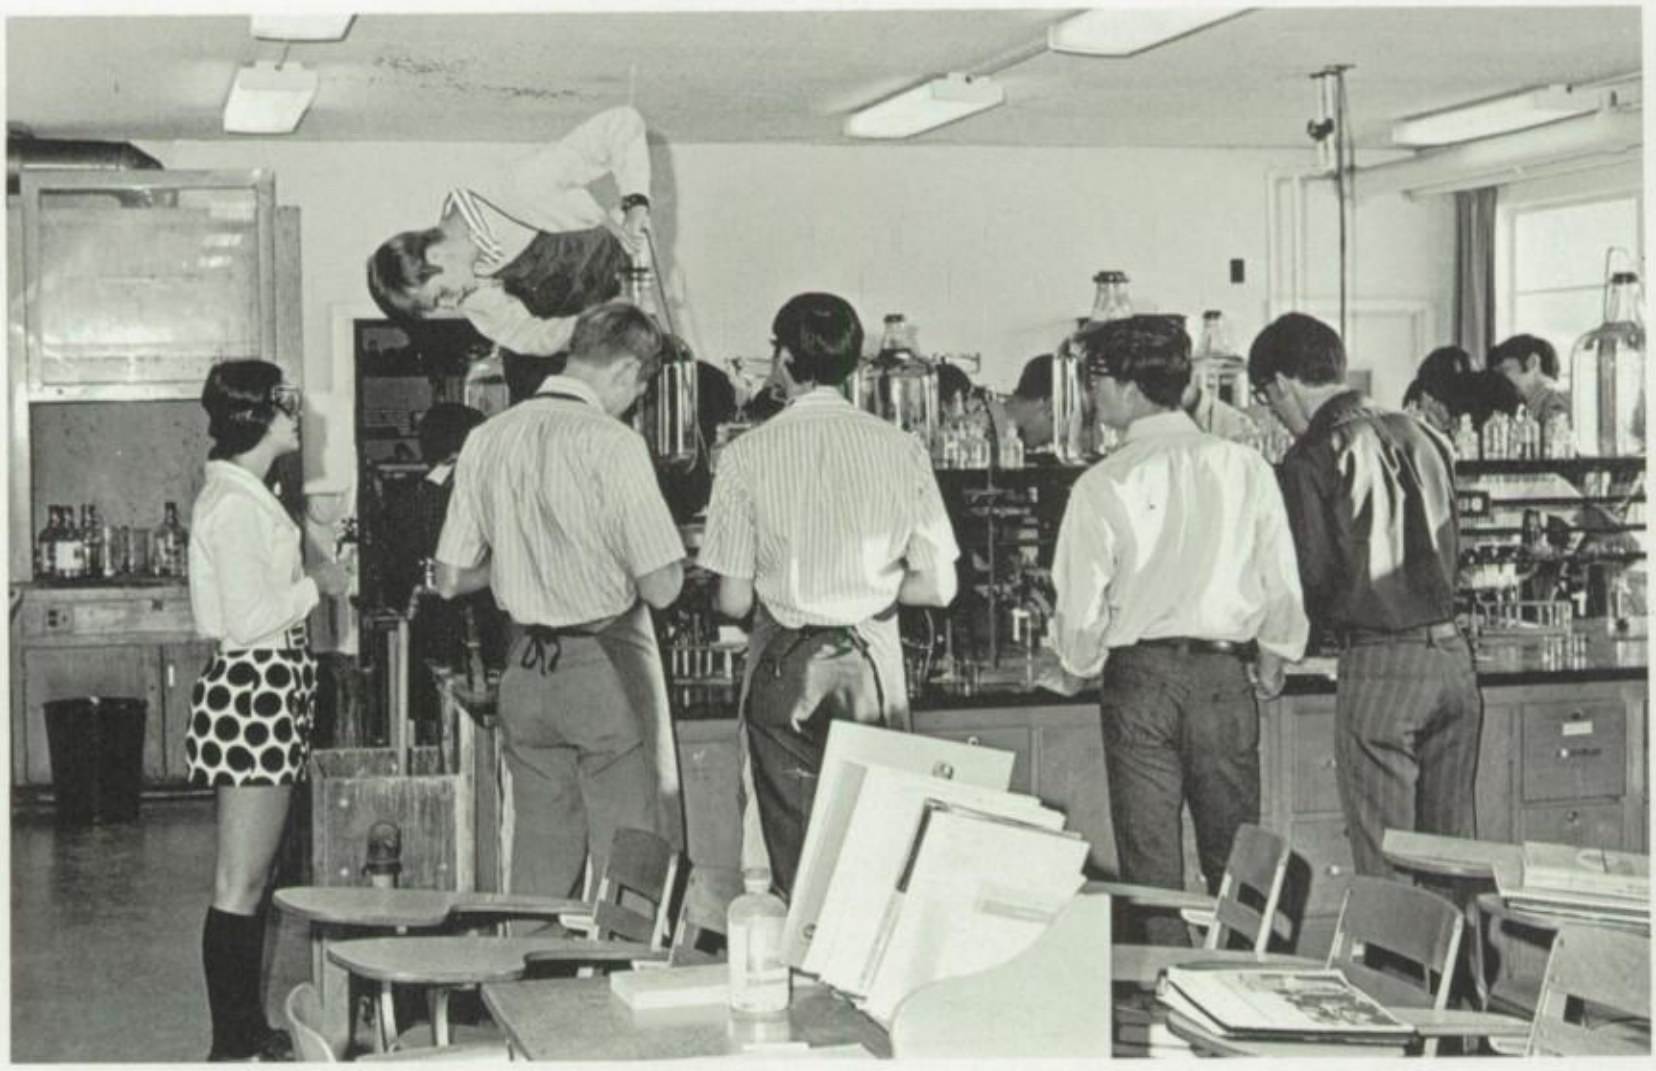
Students study advanced techniques in calculus, an honors course for advanced seniors.

Freshman algebra acquaints students with theorems and problem solving. Geometry is divided into two units: plane and solid. The volumes and dimensions of geometric figures are found. College algebra is a more advanced study using logrithms. Trig is a two part course. The first semester is a review of algebra where as trig functions are studied second semester. Calculus is offered to seniors only and is the only honors course offered at Honey Creek.

Trig students develop transit techniques.

Sophomore geometry students prove theorems for a later study of geometric figures and their dimensions.

Science students learn through experience; perfect scientific methods



Fred Pugh connects a hose to a bottle of distilled water as qual students experiment with unknown solutions.

Fascinated by the abrupt flame, chemistry students watch a reaction.

John Allen studies a plant cell during biology.

John Miesel and Jeff Mast examine an enlarged cell.

Freshman biology is the only required science course, but college bound students are urged to participate further. Biology is a general study of plants, animals and various biological functions. BSCS is an advanced class for accelerated freshmen.

Botany and zoology are the detailed studies of plants and animals. Plant and animal structure are studied through dissection.

The atomic theory is the basis of the chemistry class. Qual students study chemicals and their properties by running tests on an unknown solution and comparing these reactions to known substances.

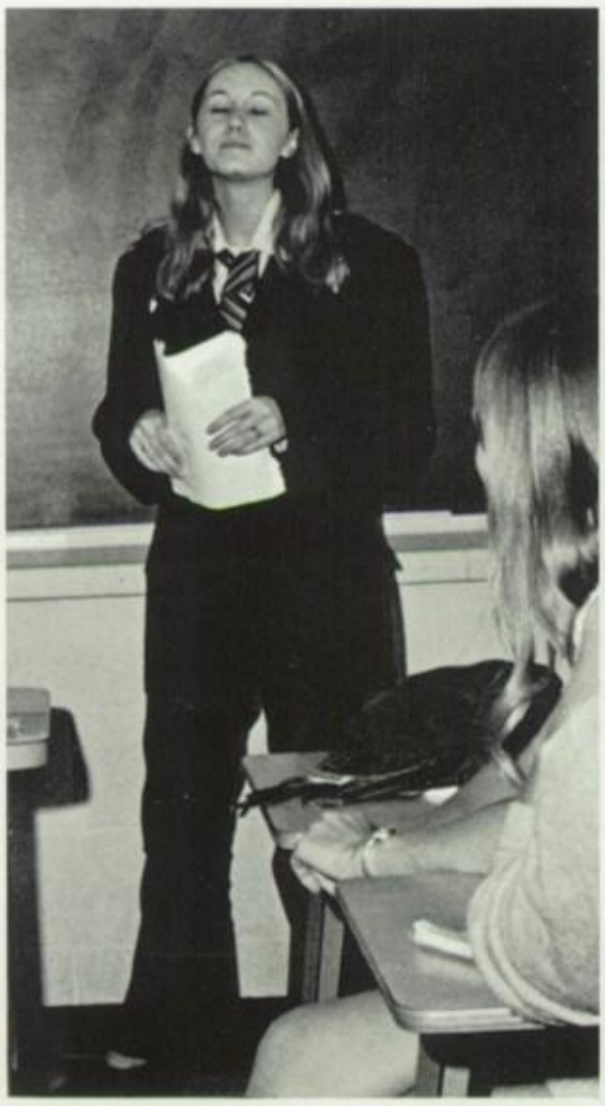
The physics classes study through group experiments and discussion.

Measuring the value of gravity during physics are Rick Richardson, Mike Shaw, Larry Morse and Bruce Payne as instructor Bernard Ridens observes.

Journalism, publications, speech strengthen communications

Second year speech student Jon Snyder monitors the morning show.

Journalism class studies lay-outs and copy styles.



Judy Thompson interprets a dramatic cutting.

Foreign languages add linguistic flavor

Learning to count is one of the first steps in understanding a language.

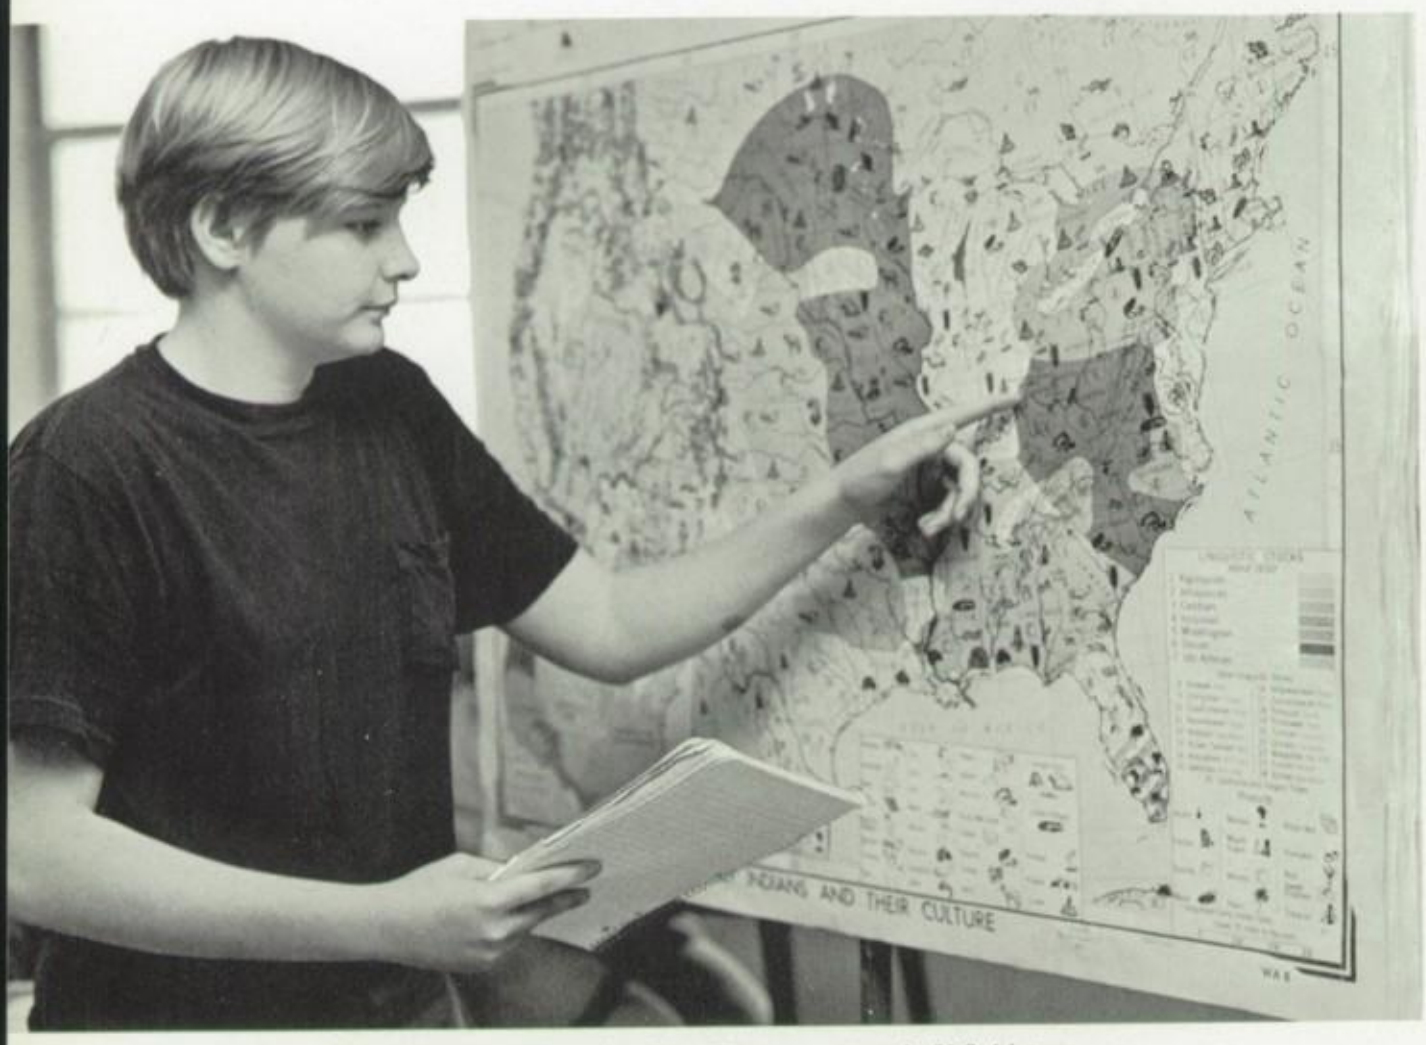
A foreign language is required by every student enrolled in the college preparatory course. The three different languages offered at Honey Creek are French, Latin, and Spanish. Language students must take two years of a single language or a year of two different languages.

Many activities are included in the language courses including daily exercises in practicing correct speaking techniques. The history of the particular country is studied including native customs and beliefs. The French classes feature a tasting party where the students sample native foods.

To develop an accent, Darrell Kruse uses a tape recorder.

Conjugating verbs is an integral part of a foreign language course.

Social studies probes man and his world



Pinpointing a native tribe, Dave Bonner reports in U.S. history.

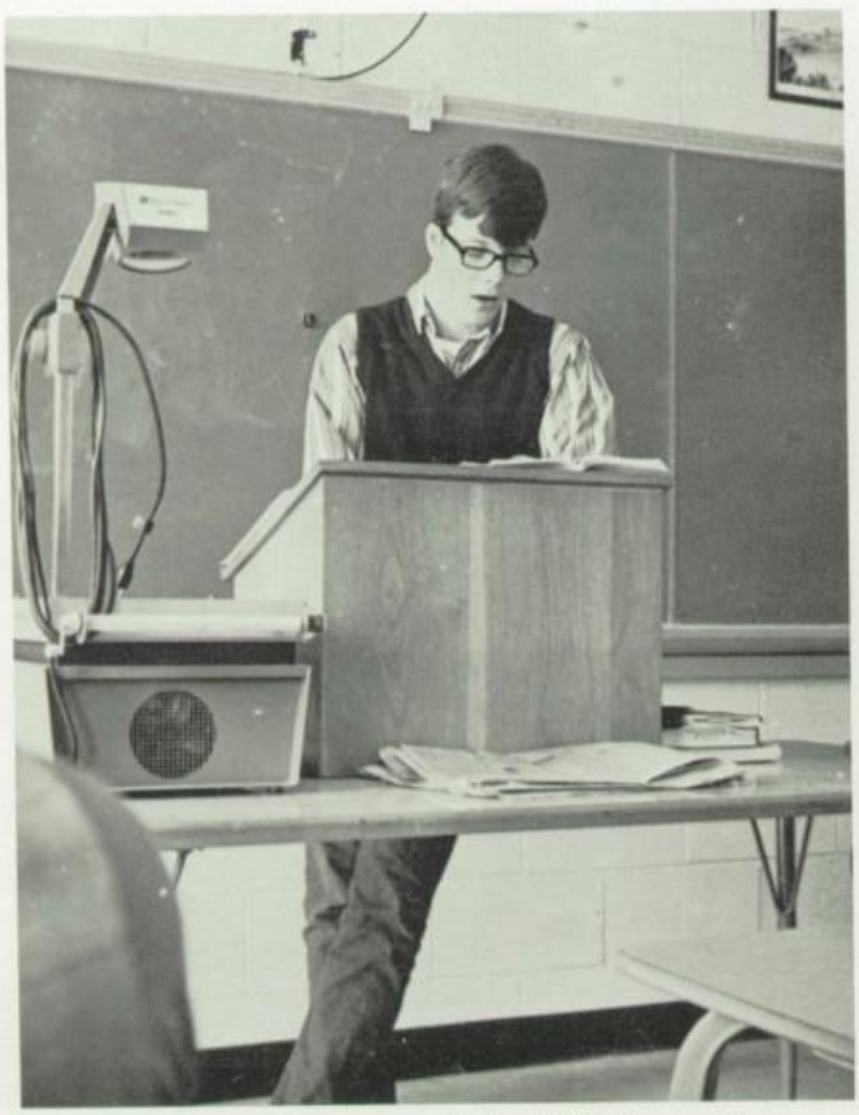
The social studies department involves all students and provides carry-over values in meeting citizenship duties. The required course, world history, acquaints the sophomore with the structure of a nation physically, politically, economically and religiously. The challenges and solutions posed by these conditions are studied.

The course of events that has shaped nations, and new trends for tomorrow make up the junior course of U.S. history.

The student becomes further involved with our own governmental functions in the senior government course.

Seniors learn the nature of human needs through sociology with a trip to the federal prison highlighting a study of criminal rehabilitation.

Economics imbues students with the knowledge of the major divisions in our economic system. Students then interpret different financial situations and work on their own solutions.



Delivering a sociology report, Richard Stiff discusses drugs.

Mr. Everhart lectures in world history as sophomores listen intently.

Valuable experience gained through driver education

While gaining self-confidence, a beginning driver first conquers a deserted stretch of road.

A summer and school year offering, driver education was open to fifteen and sixteen year olds. The course involved class discussion of courtesy and road rules. Later, the student received behind-the-wheel training with the reassuring presence of the instructor.

Agriculture, ICT shape vocational futures

Jim Lee takes advantage of free time to clean agriculture machinery.

Agriculture is an elective devised as a four-year course. Students studied supervised farming, and soil management.

Industrial Cooperative Training, "ICT," was available to junior and senior students.

Receiving experience through apprenticeship, they left for afternoon jobs.

Nine boys are enrolled in the ICT work school program.

teaches through experience

Industrial arts classes are electives for students desiring to learn practical skills. The students began as freshmen taking courses such as beginning drawing. As sophomores they were advanced to the general metals and wood shop. In junior year vocational machine shop they were introduced to the equipment. Other classes taken by juniors were advanced machine shop and advanced wood shop. Here they learned the use of the machines and performed practice operations.

The senior year began with a brief review in the operation of the machinery and then the students were allowed to work on their own projects. In wood shop these projects included making a variety of articles such as furniture, cabinets, and tables. In the machine shop the favorite project was making precision tools for student use.

Future homemakers gain practical domestic experience

As Rita Lee pours the waffle batter, Carman Huffman anxiously awaits the declicious results.

Pinning a pattern piece to Dana Luttrell, Patty Swaim makes sure the pants are long enough.

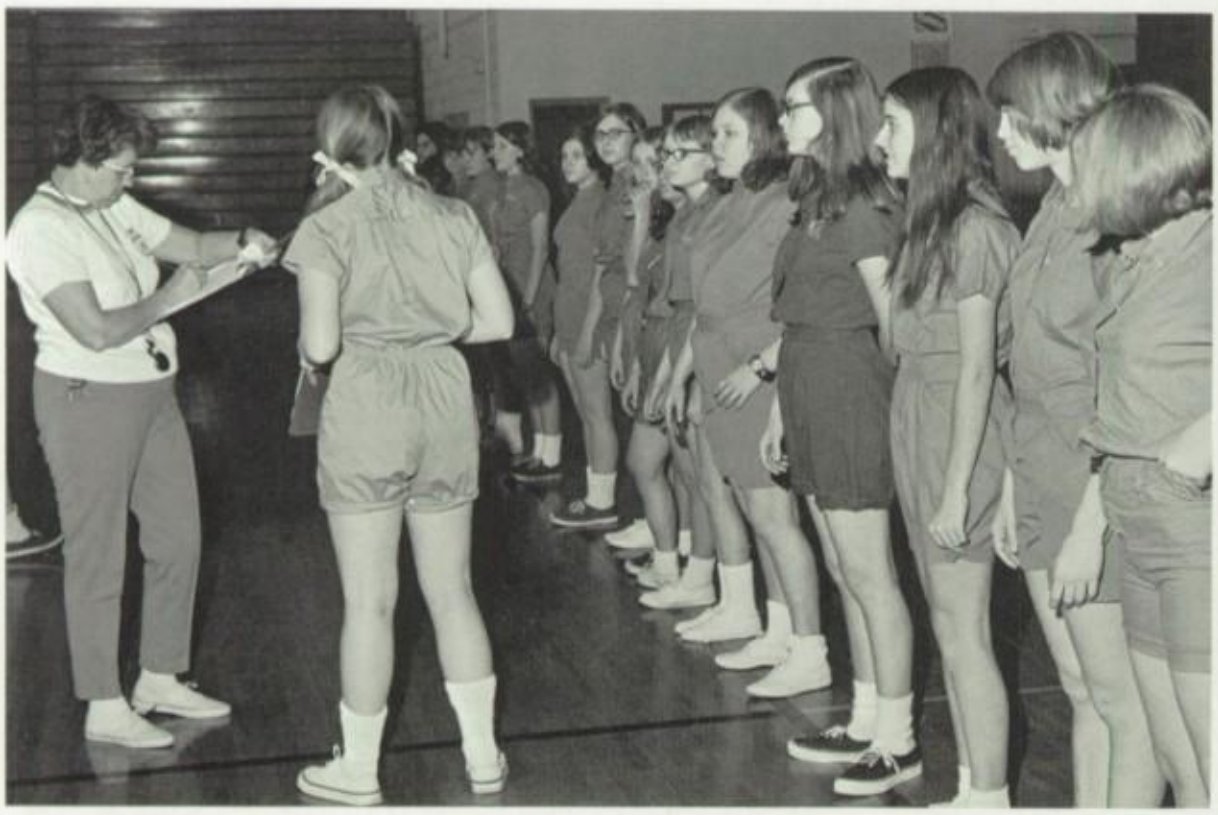
Threading her machine, Jessie Piker hurries to finish her garment.

Proper care of a home and family are the goals of the home economics curriculum. A two year minor in this area can be substituted for the required health credit.

The four year program includes detailed experience with foods, material and patterns. Girls also receive instructions on child care and development. The senior year is chiefly concerned with the individual's problems and interest areas.

Explaining the importance of a bias strip, Mrs. Duvall demonstrates basic sewing instructions.

Physical education and health, vital parts of academic scene

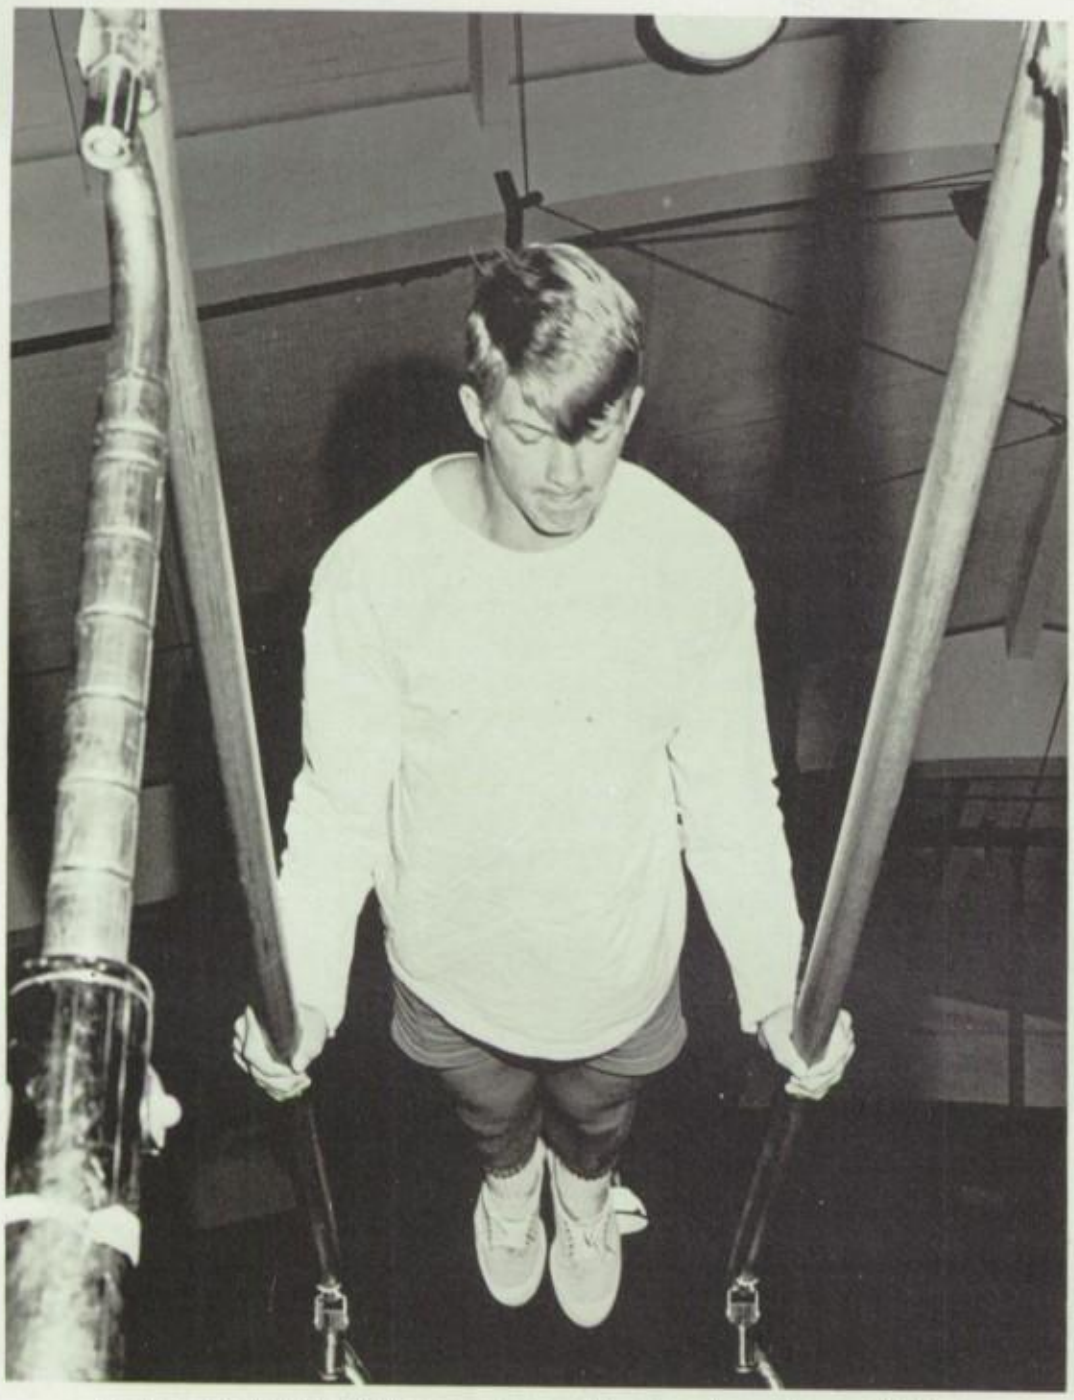


Rigid discipline encourages responsibility. Be it a sport or daily living, a physical education class builds self-pride.

Before a strenuous game of basketball, Denise Everhart warms up.

With a better understanding of sports, Elonne May finds participation creates enthusiasm.

Feeling queasy, Donna Owen and Lana Hawhee listen as Mrs. Dischinger explains the functions of the human body.

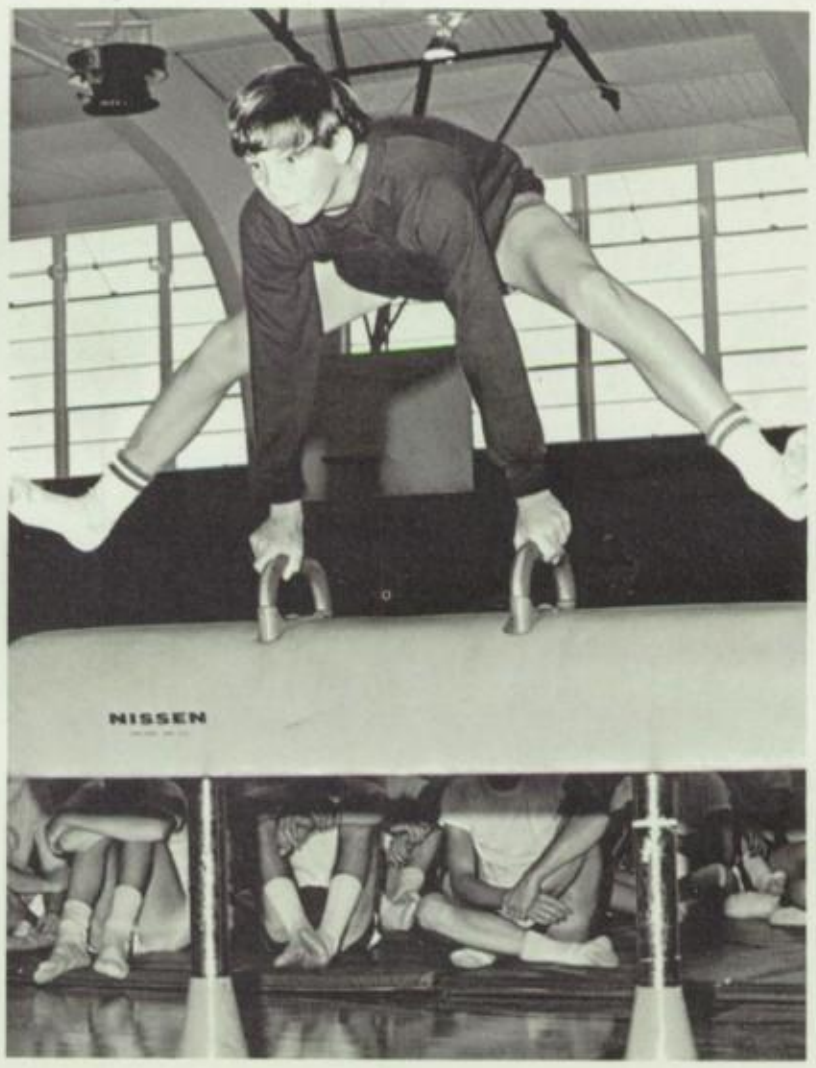


Straining for height, Phil Personette tests his strength on the parallel bars.

Classes in physical education and health were required of all students.

Sophomore health classes taught students how to take care of themselves as well as how to help others. Films and lectures gave insight into drug and alcohol problems.

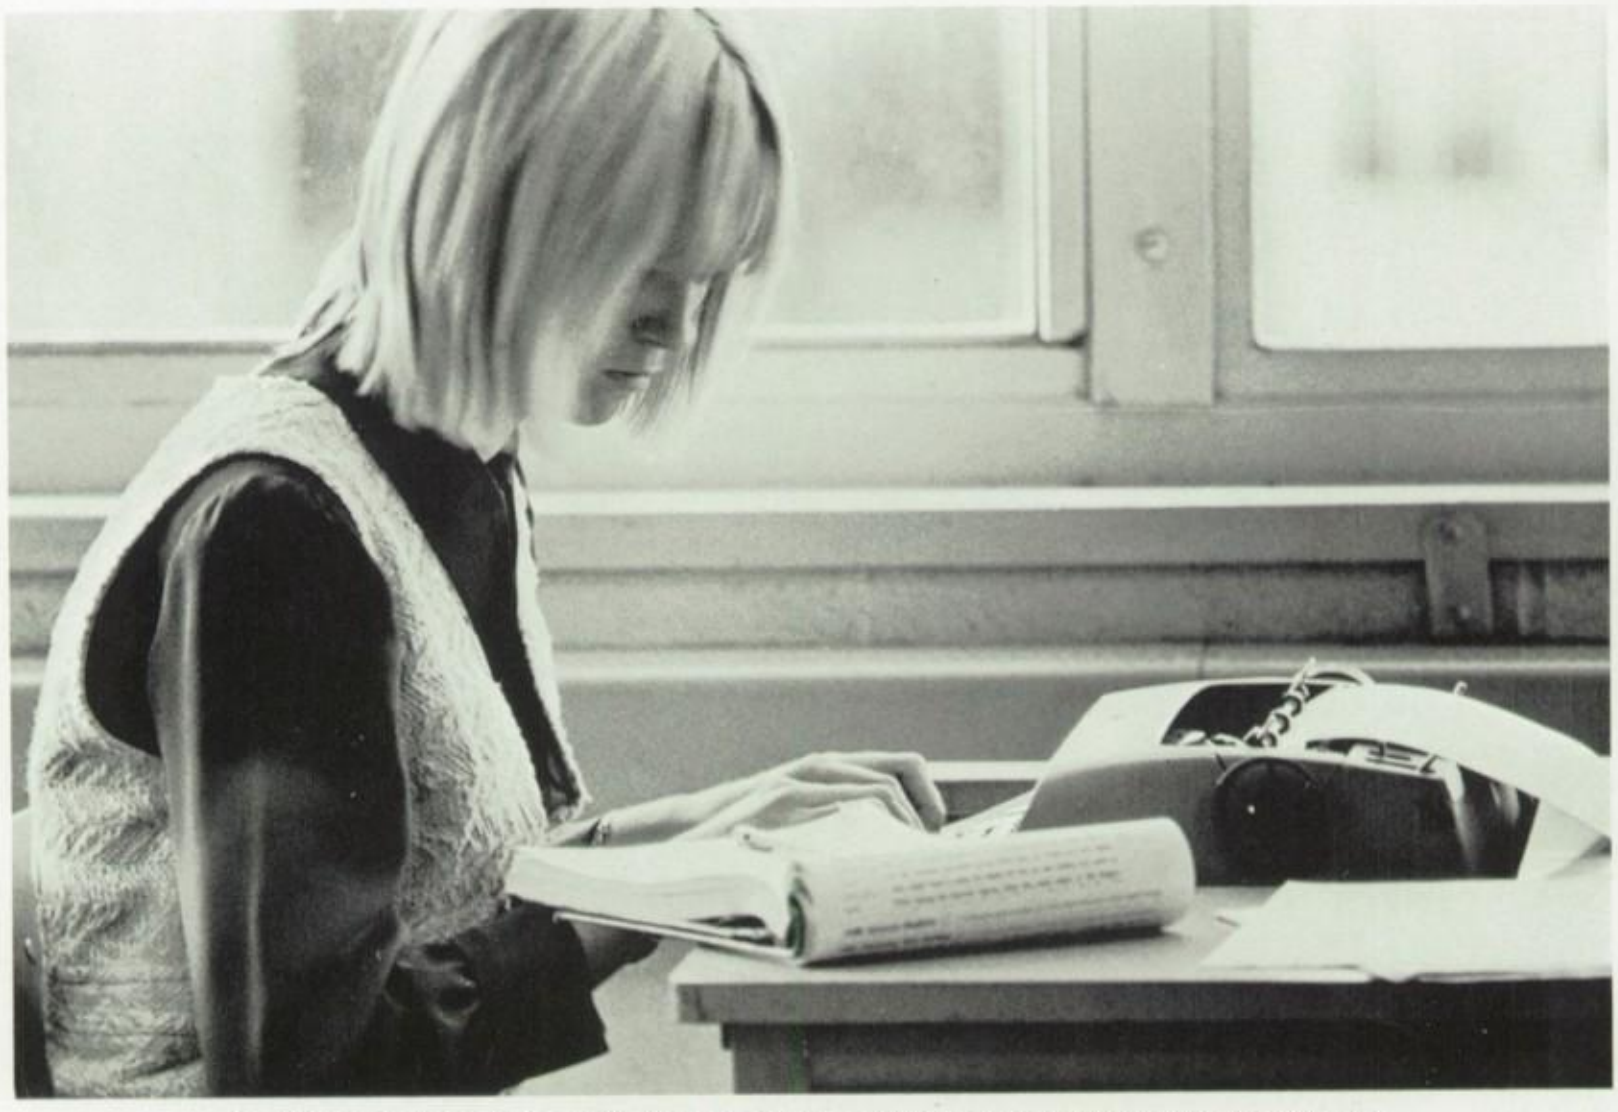
Volleying balls over nets and acquiring skill in speed ball and basketball were activities pursued by ninth and tenth graders who primarily made up P.E. classes. Boys also participated in gymnastics and track.



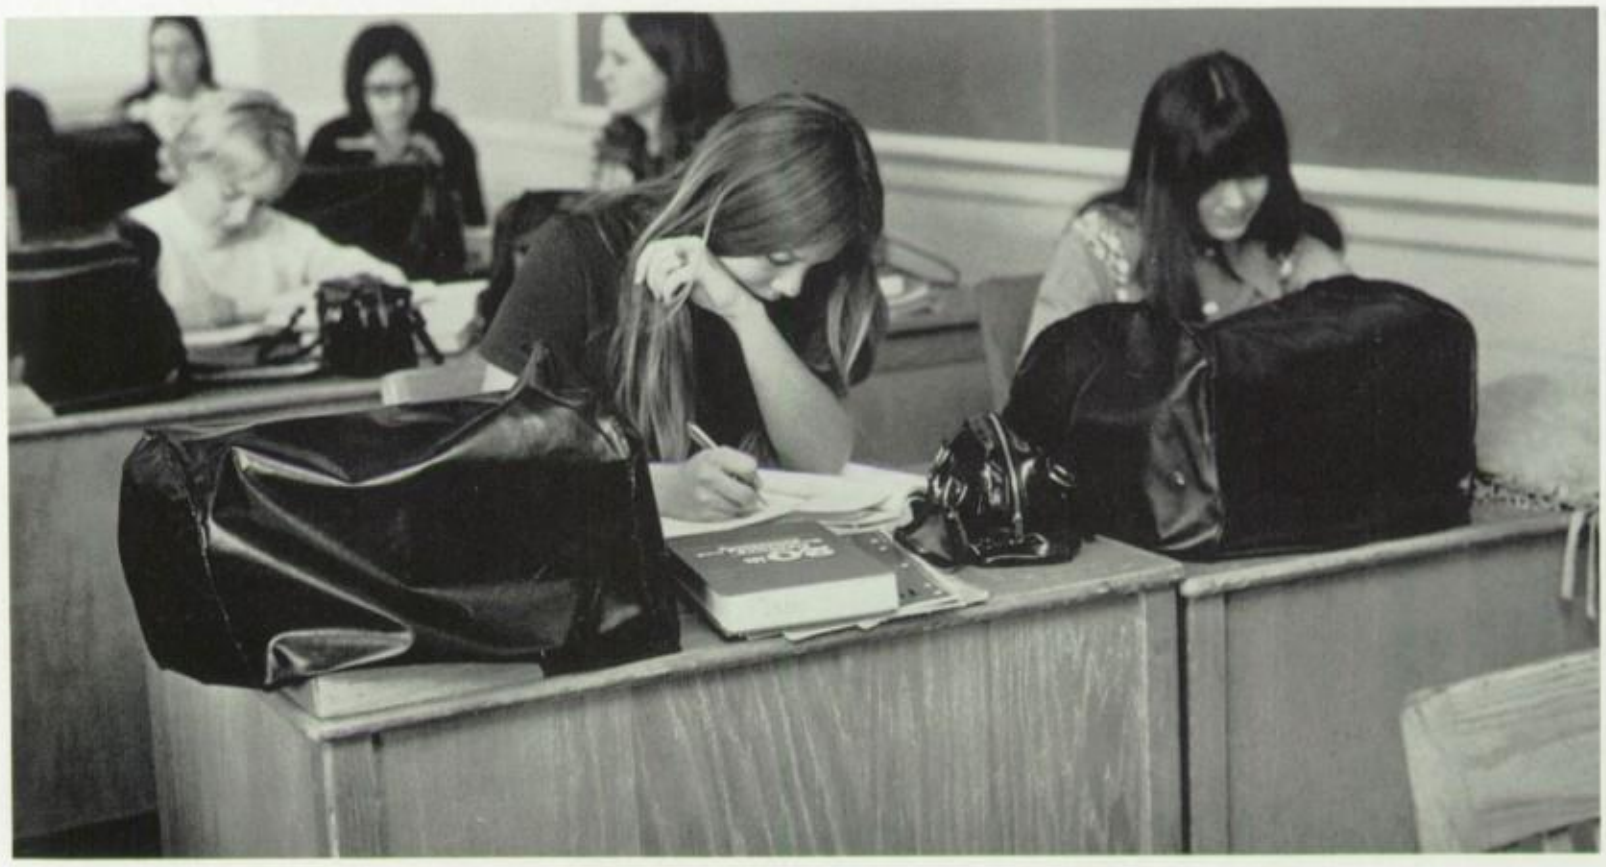
Demonstrating an outside-hop-on-the-horse, Tom Brokaw works on form.

Fundamentals of wrestling are taught and practiced in the first hour class.

Typing, shorthand and general business add useful knowledge



Practicing secretarial duties, Anita Conn works on speed and accuracy during second year typing.



Concentrating on accounts, Nila Kajander and Dorothy Allen try to grasp bookkeeping concepts.

Wanda Woolard reads about insurance investments in general business class.

In the business world one meets tough competition, and excellent training is required to become a success. Whether students are to be secretarial workers or want to learn the basics for their own use, they worked dilligently to achieve their goals.

Dictaphones, calculators, and spirit duplicators aided students in advanced typing classes. Bookkeeping students totaled up debts and credits with adding machines.

The leading enrollment course was typing; beginners learned rhythm by typing to the tempo of records.

General business, shorthand, and notehand were also popular courses for those on a business curriculum.

Sue Wilson discovers shorthand requires concentration and practice.

outlets of self-expression in art and music

Practicing the HC Christmas convo, the rehearsals continued in subzero weather.

The music department is designed to involve all those interested in the particular field of music they find challenging. These students use their talents to gain recognition not only for themselves but for the school. The choir classes prepare the HC chorus for the various concerts in which they will perform.

Art students reflect themselves through their work. Many mediums are experimented with, such as clay, cloth, and papier mache. Beginning students are under the supervision of Miriam Brentlinger while advanced students exercise more independence.

Preparing for a concert, Dave Miller and Jan James sing a duet.

Mary Jerse named Valedictorian; Mark Hannig, Salutatorian

Valedictorian Mary Jerse and Salutatorian Mark Hannig prepare their speeches for commencement, June 5.

Patti Held received a charm for winning the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award and is eligible for state and national scholarships.

Seniors voted Judy Sisson as DAR winner. After taking a government test, she was named county recipient.

Seniors ranked academically as the top ten are: Mark Hannig, Mary Jerse, Steve Parvis. Second row: Bruce Wilham, Ann Thomas, Phyllis Rogers, Karen Earlywine, Diane Pound, Beverly Brown and Robin Piety.

The Honey Creek gridmen finished their final football campaign compiling a respectable 5-5 record. The season was highlighted by wins over Greencastle and an unforgettable victory over the Robinson Maroons in the last three seconds of the game. The team also suffered some disappointments as a completed pass by Edgewood on the last play of the game cost the Bees the game. Homecoming game against West Vigo ended with a heart breaking 14-12 defeat.

At the Fall Sports Banquet, head football coach, Glen Ankney, gave special recognition to Pete Stoehr for setting several new HC records. Stoehr gained over 1600 yards rushing and scored 156 points. He also led the team in solo tackles. Jeff Leichty led in overall tackles and John Miesel led in interceptions. Stoehr was voted most valuable offensive back, Rusty Morgan was voted most valuable offensive lineman. Jim Norris was voted most valuable defensive lineman and Jeff Leichty and John Miesel tied for most valuable defensive back honors.

All-WIC and All-Valley, Pete Stoehr was also awarded honorable mention All-State runningback.

Although the Honey Creek cross country team finished with an 0-9 record, the season did have several highlights. These were due largely to sophomore John Turk placing first in four meets. These were against Schulte, North Knox, Garfield and Wiley. Other team members who placed well were Dave Wilson, Mark Hannig, Dennis Sankey, Mark Hutchinson and Dan Pigg. Practice for the harriers consisted of a three to five mile run each day.

Work for the varsity squad began in the summer when they devoted two days a week to practice as well as attending a cheerleader conference October 17. The varsity squad was elected by the student body in May of 1970.

The cheerleaders' duties did not end after a game. They were responsible for keeping spirit high throughout the year. They sold tickets, arranged for fan busses, organized pep convos and painted posters. Their advisor was Clara Dischinger.

The Basketball team finished its campaign with a respectable 9-9 season. Underclassmen formed the bulk of the team with only two seniors, Larry Morse and Bruce Payne. The experience lost with graduation was replaced by transfers Dan Debard, Bob and Dave Cole and Jim and Mike Ludlow.

Winning five of it's first seven games, HC boasted a triumphant homecoming against Schulte. The second half of the season challenged the team with such highly rated opponents as Tech, North Putnam and Rex Mundi. The sectional game against West Vigo ended with a heartbreaking 67-65 loss.

Stretching for the rim is Larry Morse.

Gaining valuable experience, Bees take fourth in WIC

Tipping the ball to a HC man, Dan Debard uses his 6'8" to Bee advantage.

Performing one of his many swift maneuvers, Mark Uhl nets two points.

Individual and relay teams captured the spotlight as the 1970 track team finished the season with one team win. Top performers were Bill White, 440 yard dash; John Turk, two mile run, and the mile relay team.

Bill White broke the record for the 440 yard dash with a clocking of 51.3. John Turk set a new record for the two mile, breaking the tape in 10:31.8. The mile relay team consisting of Bill White, Bruce Willham, Dennis Sankey, and Steve Conrad had a time of 3:32.3. This broke the old record by 12 seconds. Coach Jovi expects an improved 71 season since he lost only two seniors from last years team.

1970 Track team First row: Dennis Harlan, Mark Hutchinson, Dennis Sankey, Bruce Willham, Arch Hawkins, David Wilson, Rusty Whikanach. Second row: Elijah Reed, Danny Owens, manager, Scott Lycan, Mike King, Chuck Wardle, Jim Ward, Pete Stoehr, Jeff Liechty, Dale Milner, Mike Shaw. The tennis team concluded the 1970 season with an outstanding 8-3 record. The winning factor was their great depth as a team. The highlights of the season came with the winning of the Wabash Valley Tournament trophy.

The first six men on the team were: 1st man, Dick Brokaw; 2nd man, Mark Hannig; and 3rd man, Paul Migaki. Steve Pennell was 4th man with Allen Rupp as 5th, and Jack Lore, 6th. Playing doubles were Dick Brokaw and Mark Hannig on the first team, Paul Migaki and Allen Rupp on the second team and Steve Pennell and Jack Lore on the third. Coach Davidson expects a successful season with four returning lettermen.

Controlling school pollution, president Ed Bennett takes an active part in getting the job done. Other officers are Paul Migaki, vice-president, Carla Bischoff, secretary, Gloria Brown, treasurer.

In addition to promoting better communications between the student body and the administration, the Student Senate undertook several service projects during the academic year.

To better student relations the Senate sponsored a get-together dance at the opening of school last fall. In conjunction with football and basketball seasons, the Senate members conducted the annual homecomings. It also sponsored the Lil' Abner dance and the spring carnival. Christmas and Easter parties were given for retarded and underprivileged children.

Once again the Senate participated in the inter-city council. By visiting other schools and having visitors at Honey Creek, it was hoped the sharing of ideas would strengthen each school's student council and ease consolidation.

Senior members, First row: D. Madru, L. Byrer, C. Bischoff, V. Evinger, G. Pettebone. Second row: L. Morse, A. Hawkins, R. Little, B. Wilham, E. Bennett, B. Willig.

After the basketball game, students celebrated the win at a senate dance.

Acid rock music was provided by Goliath at the football homecoming dance.

Putting the new suggestion box to good use, freshmen Rich Long and Tim Tipton suggest a three-day week.

Band and orchestra compete in state concert festivities

Enthusiasm and interest in orchestral music make John Clough strive to perfect his skill on the violin under the direction of Robert Jameson.

Rick Stiff and Craig Barkley add to the excitement of the Blue and White parade with the beat of the HC drums.

Long hours of tedious practice prepare orchestra members for concerts and state competition.

The band, under the direction of James Aitken, consisted of the following: baritone horns: L. Anderson, M. Farr, S. Taylor, R. Stiff; bass horns: D. Kruzarr, C. Wardle; bass clarinet: C. Barkley, N. Boyd, J. Smith; clarinets: T. Allen, D. Fuson, M. Hoopengarner, L. May, P. Milam, M. Ooley, C. Phillips, C. Piety, C. Price, K. Shirley, K. Stitch, R. Turner, P. Watson; flutes: C. Crawford, K. Earlywine, S. Hawbaker, C. Hux, M. Jones, B. Moore, S. Shirley, G. Snyder; french horns: K. Aldrich, R. Beauchamp, M. Johnston, J. Morris, B. Reely; obe: D. Butler; percussion: S. Farmer, M. King, S. Parvis, T. Smith, M. Walker, T. Whitlock; saxophones: G. Brown, P. Brown, D. Duperon, R. Henry, J. Sisson, W. Tucker, W. White; trombones: G. Hardesty, J. Higgins, K. Hogan, M. Krumreich, D. Nearpass, D. Nelson, S. Page; trumpets: B. Blocksom, D. Bonner, J. Higgins, S. Pound, S. Wilson, D. Zuerner.

Sharon Shirley finds that long hours of practice make for a perfect showing on the football field during a Friday night performance.

Tom Allen signals the start of the show as the band falls into half time formation.

Honey Creek's band has proved itself to be one of the hardest working bands in Vigo County. For the last 17 years it has averaged first division winners 75 per cent of the time in all phases of state music contests and has never received lower than a second.

In fall the band was kept busy performing at football games and marching in parades. During the winter they put on the annual Christmas concert and participated in state contests. Spring brought more concerts and additional state contests. The band is directed by James Aiken and the orchestra is directed by Robert Jameson.

Honey Dreamers sing for homecomings and civic programs

The Honey Dreamers are First row: S. Taylor, D. Walls. Second row: S. Rickets, J. Keegan, S. Wilson, M. Hayhurst, B. Fry, H. Hilton, D. Nelson, R. Power, R. Holt, N. Boyd, S. Self, J. Miller, K. Beeliners add color and style to half time performances

Honey Creek's Beeliners ended their marching season by participating in the Veteran's Day Parade. Over the years, the Beeliners have strived for precision and accuracy with their combined hand motions and modern dance steps.

This year's Beeliners began their busy schedule during mid-summer with practice three times a week. The band and Beeliners performed at the Annual Softball Tourney August 27 and at the Football Jamboree the following evening. The Beeliners also presented five shows in town and represented HC in the ISU Homecoming Parade where they marched to "Back Home Again in Indiana."

Beeliners anxiously await the drum major's signal to start the show.

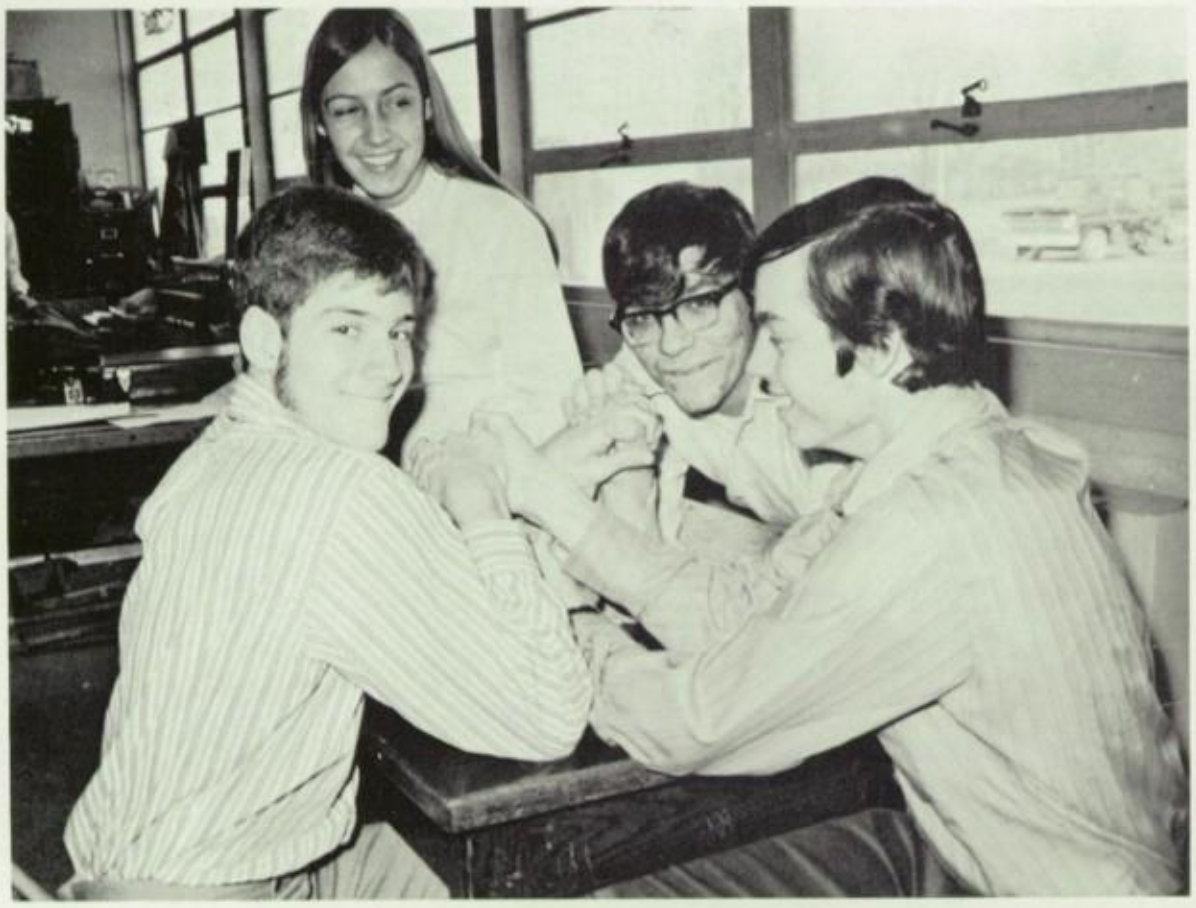
Spirited Carla Bischoff goes through the steps of the dance routine while performing at the West Vigo field.

Additional pages and pictures comprise BUZZ

Deep in their work are Shirley Vencel, editor, Debbie Nelson, assistant editor and Carol Liffick, co-ass't editor.

Good senses make good reporters and Vicki Hannig, Lynn Williams, Jeannie Sabb, Barb Moore, Heather Piety meet the qualifications.

Wound-up in their work are Joe Kelly, Randy Swartz and Guy Greenlee, photographers.



Engaged in combat are sportswriters Ed Bennett, Rick Wilkerson and Mike Wilkerson, columnist Janet Everhart judges.

Hard work not only during school, but also after school and on week-ends was responsible for this year's BUZZ. Headed by Shirley Vencel, the BUZZ was published bi-weekly and contained school news, features and editorials. A photographic collage appeared in every issue.

Student photographers took pictures throughout the year for the Buzz and Spirit staffs. Assignments also included work for the ANTHEMION, athletic programs and science classes.

Cartoonist Rick Stillwell seeks the perfect picture.

Frollicking before "shooting" the Buzz, Phyllis Rogers disguises Kathy Knight.

Spirit captures 'Reflections of the Many Who are One'

Going up on the roof to escape the confusion below, editor Sharon Pennell finds trouble as co-ass't editors Judy Thompson and Lonna Strain attempt to throw her off.

"Is this lay-out all right, or does it reek like the 83 I did before?" "It's only 3:00 in the morning, we still have time to do another page!" Quotes like these were familiar to the Spirit staff. Rushing to meet a deadline only to discover a page missing or scurrying to photograph an event which the editor forgot to mention was cancelled were all in a day's work as staffers slaved to complete the 200-page yearbook.

For the Wiley football game, the staff decorated a Spirit Wall with posters and crepe paper. The annual Spirit convo was held in November with Bruce Wilham, Rusty Morgan, Richard Stiff, Arch Hawkins and Larry Morse taking part in the skit to raise support for the '71 Spirit.

Advisers Mr. Arnett and Mr. Davidson gave invaluable assistance throughout the year.

A difference of opinion causes senior Vicki Butter to be "run through" by album editor Gail Greiner and Janee Wilkins.

"The Spirit is being held for ransom!" cries Bruce Wilham as Mr. Arnett clutches his pooch. The "ping-pong playing Spirit-nappers" were later caught and executed with cream pies.

Using the phone to secure advertising contracts, business editor, Karen Harlan, puts in many hard hours on her section.

Sliding down the banister is Cindy Johnston, academic editor, Phyllis Rogers, faculty, and Arch Hawkins, sports.

Fresh air brings fresh ideas to organization editor, Shelli Ligon, and staff members Andi McManus and Kathy Hoopengarner.

Y-teens boasts largest club with 318 members

Y-teens is a service club for girls. The year's curriculum was planned by officers Janet Everhart, president; Jennifer Dodd, vice-president; Gloria Brown, secretary; and Robin Piety, treasurer. The service chairman was Beverly Brown, with devotions headed by Paula Watson. Jeanne Sabb supervised the program committee, while Phyllis Porter directed the publicity. Each class was given a project. The freshmen sponsored the senior banquet and the sophs organized the "Dessert for Dads". Junior members presented a style show while seniors were free to choose their own projects.

All-club activities included caroling at the nursing homes, formal dances, and collecting for the March of Dimes. A basketball game was held with the profits going to cancer research. An environment project was also organized.

Jennifer Dodd was crowned Miss Y-Teen of Vigo County at the "Harvest Moon" dance in November.

Preparing Thanksgiving baskets for the needy are Sue Hicks, Janet Everhart, Carol Liffick, Shirley Vencel, Kathy Knight and Melinda Rotramel.

Key Club fills year with service projects

Mark Hannig serves as moderator during a discussion of club activities.

"On Wisconson" played to an acid rock beat by Jack Lore and Steve Parvis gave this year's convo a new image.

Club members Steve Parvis, Ed Bennett, Mark Hannig and Rick Wilkerson put in over-time to plan Key Club's convo.

Taking matters into his own hands, Mark Hannig sounds off the call of attention.

Members First row: G. Smith, R. Gormong, B. Corenflos, S. Lycan, D. Wilson, P. Migaki. Second row: D. Smith, L. Morse, J. Kinnett, J. Steward, R. Henry, K. Senseman, M. Hutchinson. Third row: E. Mark Hannig heads the Key Club officer's totem pole as president. Steve Parvis is secretary, Rick Wilkerson treasurer and John Lukens, not pictured, is vice-president.

Dennis Schuler, Rick Wilkerson, Ron Gormong and Mike Wilkerson add last minute touches to the longship before the judges arrive.

Speakers create new awareness of current events in Forum Club

The Forum Club was one of the social and political organizations at Honey Creek. Its purpose was to provide a forum of political and social discussion and to promote student interest in government. Speakers representing all aspects of public relations came to inform students of current events.

This year Forum dealt largely with social problems although one meeting was set aside for a political speech from a member of Honey Creek's faculty, Mr. Arnett.

This club is for the student who is aware of today's and tomorrow's problems. Officers of Forum are Scott Lyken, Gayla Welton, Jeannie Sabb and Cindy Johnson.

Forum Club Members: N. Meadows, A. McManus, C. Bishoff, B. Snyder, M. Hannig, N. Lash, E. Thomas, J. Smith, G. Greiner, C. Liffick, S. Woodsmall, S. Ball, L. Jones, P. Hilton, L. Williams, P. HI-Y builds homecoming bonfire 'to end all bonfires'

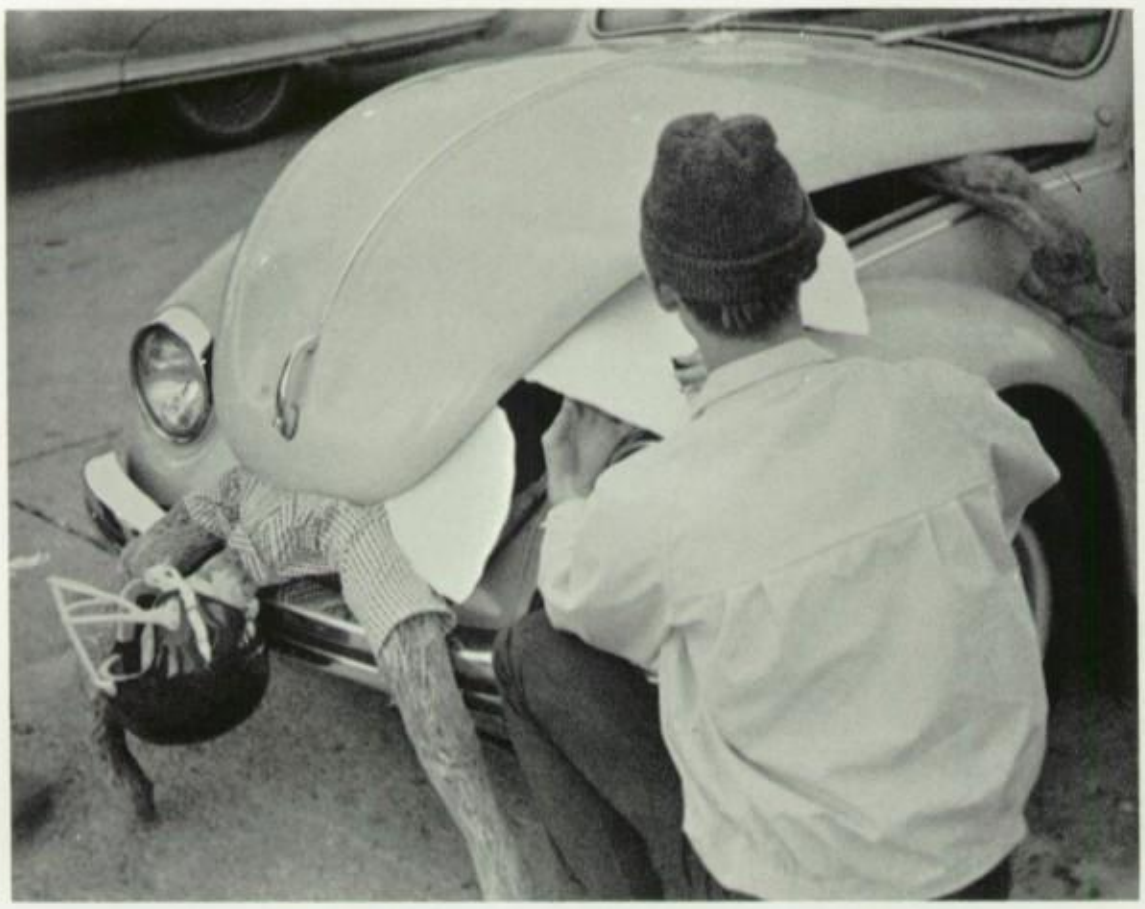
Taking an objective stance, Hi-Y members give the bonfire its final check.

The Hi-Y operated under a full schedule. As a service project to the community, they worked with the Y-Teens in distributing Christmas baskets of food to needy families. To boost the balance of the treasury, members sold stationery both at school and throughout the city.

The club also sponsored the annual bonfire building as part of the HC homecoming festivities. Members held close to tradition and ceremoniously crowned the pile of timbers with an "out house."

Club sponsors, Larry Wolfe and Darrel Everhart, advised the club on all its projects and during its inter-city basketball tourneys. Ed White held the gavel and Larry Morse served as his vice president. Other officers were Maurice Loehman, Rich Denham, and Dennis Schuler.



Jon Turk gives the "Viking Eater" a dental check-up prior to its homecoming debut.

Hi-Y member Mark Fleschner looks on as varsity cheerleaders ignite the school's last bonfire.

Initiation 'survivors' become VICA and FFA members

First row: E. Heady, L. Wilson, D. Dalton, D. Dragon, H. Oxendine, T. Norris. Second row: T. Hart, G. Rayhel, D. Slater, A. Wilson, D. Power. Third row: R. Whitkanak, B. Cheeseman, D. Curry, B. Killebrew, M. Roberts. Fourth row: L. King, C. Lawson, B. King, T. Collins, F. Harlan.

Club meetings of the Honey Creek branch of VICA provided time for young men interested in shop courses to get together and discuss the many aspects of wood-working and tool and die making. The year began with a rigorous initiation for all club prospects. The initiates were subjected to everything from water balloons being burst over their heads to the drinking of a special brew mixed by the club officers. Each new member soon found however, that the finer points of the club were more than enough to make up for all the water and brew.

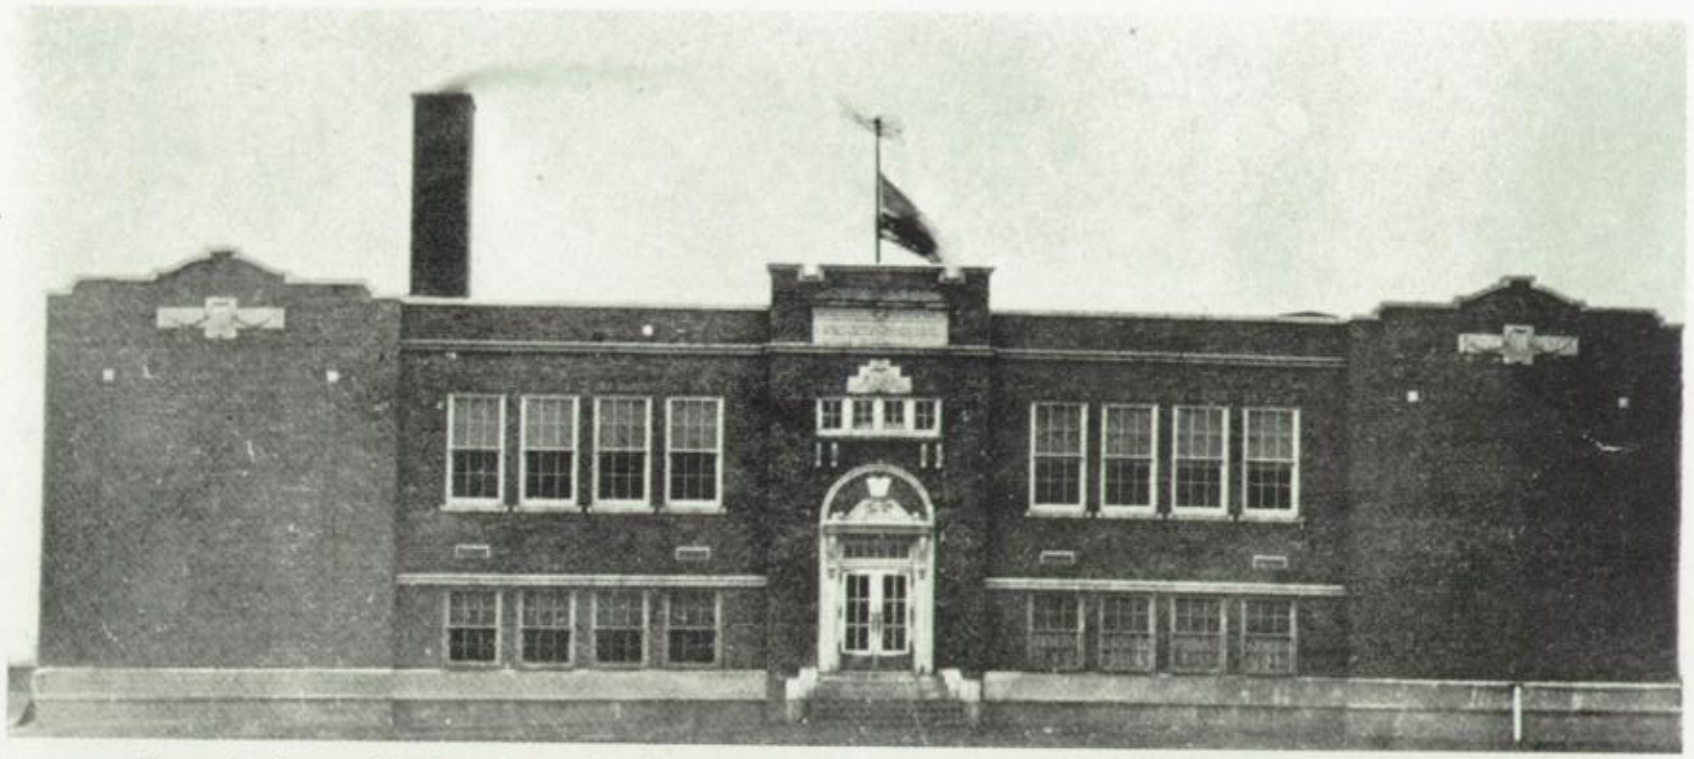
Past

The very spot where many a time we triumphed is not forgotten

First principal, C. K. McWilliams



Honey Creek opened its doors in the fall of 1925, welcoming students from Youngstown, Maryland and Quaker Schools.

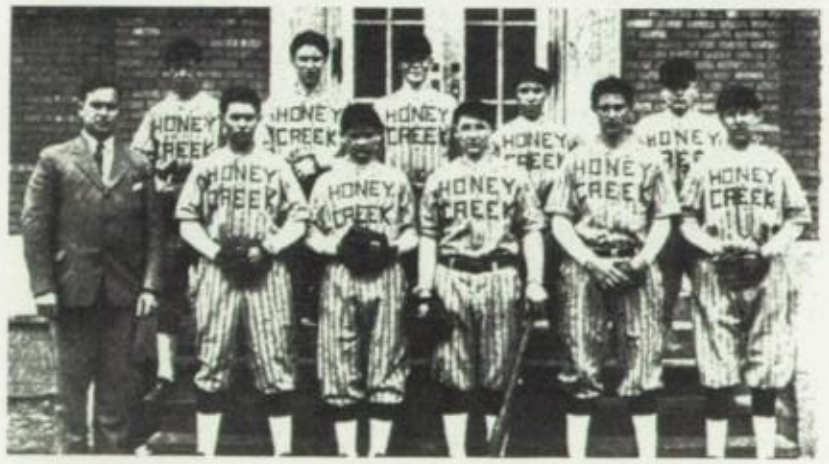
Honey Creek High School became a reality in the fall of 1925, and by spring of 1926, nineteen eager, young men and women made up the first graduating class.

C. K. McWillams was the first principal and Ivan Morris served as trustee. Honey Creek welcomed students who had attended Maryland, Youngstown and Quaker schools. A staff of seven teachers was employed as Honey Creek High School "came to life!"

Mr. McWillams remained at the helm for two years and was succeeded by J. Ord Fortner who was principal from fall, 1927, to spring, 1932. Louis Kitch then became principal, a post he held until spring, 1934, when Mr. Fortner reassumed the principalship. Honey Creek remained under his leadership until spring of 1941. Mr. Fortner's twelve years of service rank him as the dean of HC's twelve principals.

"The Live Wire," the first school newspaper, was published in 1925 and it crusaded for a new gymnasium. A need that was soon met. The newspaper's name was changed in 1927 to "The Buzzer" and later shortened to "The Buzz."

THE HONEYCOMB was HC's yearbook. It was first published in 1927 under the editorship of Harvey Kesler. Its name was later changed to SPIRIT.



Varsity baseball team of 1927. First row: Coach Klatte, J. Evans, F. Beall, C. Brown, B. Austin, C. Nichols. Back row: F. Champ, M. Anders, W. Evans, W. Fox, H. Kesler.

New additions to the school in 1927 included a gymnasium and two classrooms. In 1928 an agriculture building was erected, mainly through the efforts of students. It was later used as a vocational building.

Youngstown students moved on to Honey Creek in 1925.

HC was active in extracurricular activities as basketball and baseball teams were organized. An orchestra, band and chorus were also formed. Several clubs were chartered in various interest areas such as agriculture, sewing and drama.

First graduates, Class of '26; Front row: R. Woolverton, H. Weese, P. Zimmerman, R. Robertson, T. Austin. Second row: E. Johnson, M. Myles, E. Curry, C. Tyler, M. Morris, E. McClure, J. Harlan. Third row: G. Klatte, teacher, H. Burnett, C. Cook, L. Durbin, I. Morris, trustee, R. Reupke, V. Schalburg, I. Cottrell, T. Pierce, H. Dowell, teacher. Back row: (all teachers) G. Keever, M. Beckwith, C. Alterkruse, R. Barbee, J. Furry, C. K. McWilliams, principal.

Harry Dowell coached the basketball team to a 6-10 record during the 1926-27 season.

Agriculture building, which later housed vocational education, was built by students.

"The Buzzer" staff kept students informed. First row: J. Harlan, J. Pugh, E. Murphy, V. Garvin. Second row: Mr. Klatte, sponsor, O. Manhart, W. Farmer, F. Champ, L. Grace. Top row: W. Bays, V. Schell, L. Champ, M. Evans, E. Powers.

One of HC's largest clubs, the 1948 Y-Teens, was originally known as Blue Tri.

GAA was active in 1942. B. Conway, R. Morris, L. Hudson, B. Francis, A. Schwartz, M. Young, E. Drake, sponsor.

New clubs, bond sales highlight the 40's

Principals William E. Purcell, left, and J. Ord. Fortner, right. Mr. Fortner was principal for twelve years. Mr. Purcell served for three years.

"Buy a bond" was the cry in 1943.

Senior class officers of 1948. Left to right: T. McCullough, C. Richardson, president, M. Burke, sponsor, J. Ridens, treas., R. Marley, student council, J. Robertson, secretary, E. Long, sponsor.

Dedicate new school; gridders win "Valley;" junior high burns

ANNIE GET YOUR GUN starred Susan Rogers and Scott Curtis in 1965. Susan gave an unforgettable performance as "Annie."

The new HC gym was dedicated on Dec. 6, 1958, although the high school wasn't ready until spring, 1959.

The grimace on coach Pete Varda's face belies the fact his 1967 gridders captured the Wabash Valley Football Championship.

The "new" Honey Creek High School opened its doors to students in March, 1959.

The completion of the "new" high school was big news in 1959, and the school was dedicated in March of that year.

Later in 1959, Honey Creek found itself involved in a reorganization program and by Jan 1, 1961, HC had become a part of the Vigo County School Corporation, a move that pleased some, but by no means all of Honey Creek's patrons.

Carl Riddle was HC's principal from fall of 1957 to June, 1961. He was instrumental in guiding HC through the "building" and "reorganization" years.

Varsity football was introduced in 1962 and a Wabash Valley championship team emerged in 1966 with Pete Varda as coach. Mike Blackwell and Steve Bedwell were offensive standouts on that team.

More construction was on the agenda as the industrial education wing was built during the 1963-64 school year to house graphic arts, wood, metal and machine shops.

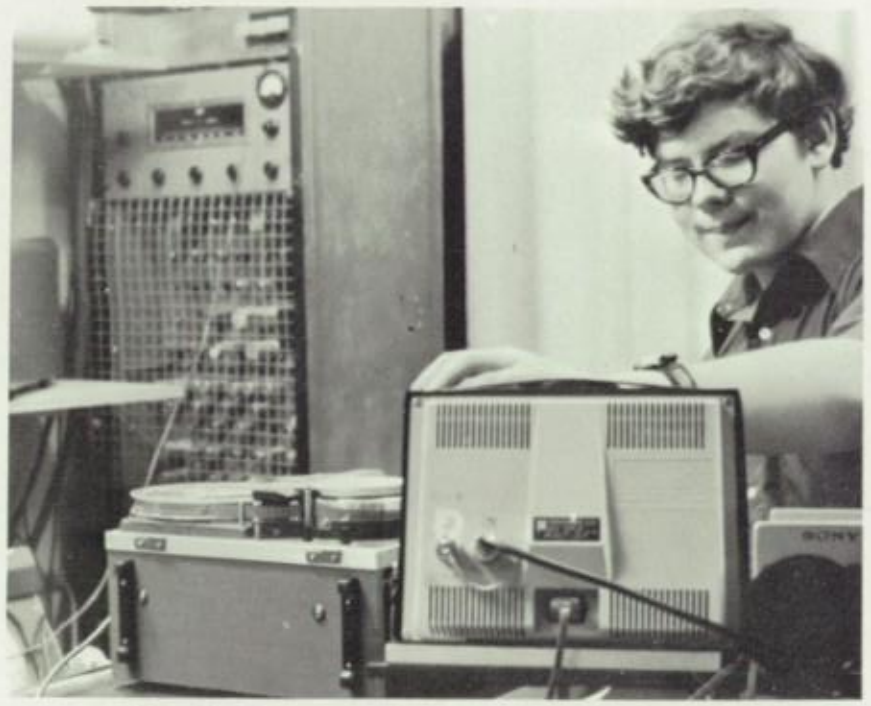
Lightning was blamed for the fire that destroyed Honey Creek Junior High on July 17, 1965.

On July 17, 1965, lightning struck the junior high building which had housed the first Honey Creek High School. The building was gutted and later torn down. Junior high students were assigned to Sarah Scott Junior High.

Closed circuit TV was installed in 1968, and each room was equipped with a TV receiver. Programs were produced and telecast over HCHS Channel 5. The video tape system offered HC students a useful tool which could be applied to any subject.

The golf team came up with a sectional championship in 1969. Charles Ferguson was the coach and Biff Crawford played number one man. In 1970 the Bee baseball team wound up as runner-up in the sectional round of the state tourney, losing a heartbreaker to Wiley in the championship game.

The 50's and 60's were busy years at HCHS.



Tim Black operates the closed-circuit TV system.

At the completion of the 1966 season Honey Creek was named Co-County and Wabash Valley Champs. Front row: W. Compton, J. Lee, J. Faught, M. Blackwell, T. Gelder, B. Davis, C. Elliott. Second row: M. Moberly, S. Mickey, R. Hampton, K. Harlan, S. Curtis, T. Huntworth, F. Mickey, R. Ligon, Mgr. J. Fox. Third row: R. Thomas, S. Bedwell, D. Stone, B. Pence, R. Christjansen, D. Utterback, J. Winkle, C. Woodruff, R. Bowman, R. Swan, T. Bowman, N. Cheesman.

HC Past, memories made by people

Representing more than 200 years of teaching and administrative experience at Honey Creek are: First row: C. LaFollette, V. Whitlock, C. Dischinger, W. Siner, V. Schroeder, D. Everhart, A. Schomer. Second row: M. Davison, J. Roeschlein, T. Moore, asst. principal, W. Weddle, C. Ferguson, J. Aitken, W. Ray, principal.

When the tumult and shouting has died away, the final consensus may well show that while the school served as a place to congregate, it was really people who provided the memories.

People who worked together and struggled together. Groups of people who spent much time and energy in order to make HC a better school, to offer its students added advantages. These were real people, genuine people, sincere people.

This page is dedicated to all those students, administrators, teachers, cooks and custodial employees who will always have soft spots in their hearts for the people who WERE Honey Creek High School.

The Mother Bees (at left) were always ready to work on any project that would benefit HC students. The cooks (below) made sure students had hot, tasty meals available to them. Front row: E. Friend, mgr., M. Gilbert, D. Hipkiss. Back row: N. Pender, D. Price, M. Cochran, R. Caress.

Carl Riddle saw HC through the reorganization period. After the 1961 school year, he was promoted to the position of assistant superintendent of schools.

Leon Purcell taught in Honey Creek Township schools for 35 years, 32 of which were spent at Honey Creek High School. At the time of his retirement, he was serving as dean of boys.

The 1945-46 basketball team produced Honey Creek's only sectional basketball championship. They completed the season with 19 wins against only 3 losses. Row one: E. Fleschner, B. Schwartz, W. Allen, E. Richardson, D. Goodman, T. Davidson. Standing: W. Purcell, principal, B. Walls, J. Reilly, L. Hensley, coach, P. Oxendine, B. Miller, D. Tague, M. Bailey, manager. Below: The Honey Creek Men's Club always stood ready to boost Honey Creek's athletes. Their members sold advertising for the football and basketball programs, thereby raising thousands of dollars for the athletic department. 1971 officers were: B. Thomas, C. Payne, J. Jones, Dr. G. Justus.

Seniors

Reflecting upon their four years spent at HC, seniors enter a new world of business, advanced education and homemaking. The class of '71 leaves behind it many traditions and accepts new challenges. The long hours of work which guarantee a successful project or a triumphant sports event become memories and are replaced by new aspirations.

Clowning after the '8:00 lock-up' are senior officers Shelli Ligon, treasurer; Debbie Madru, vice-president; Bruce Willham, president; and Judy Sisson, secretary.

Steve Decker relaxes after a rough week at school.

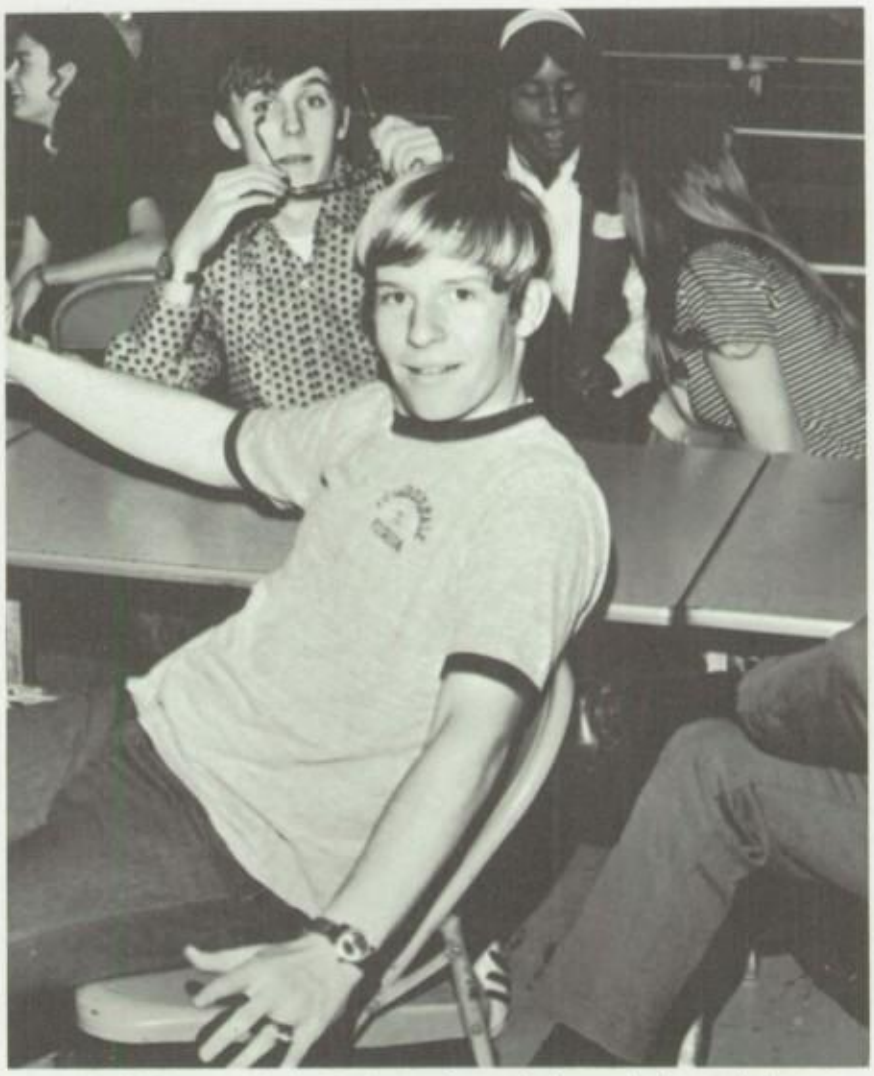
Juniors

On the stairs of success are president Patti Hilton, vice-president Janice Smith, Paula Watson, treasurer, Lynn Williams, secretary.



Jeff Mast and John Luekens clown during activity period.

With three years of their high school life finished, juniors look back and remember their experiences; some painful, some nostalgic, but their greatest challenge is yet to come when they consolidate with Wiley.

School spirit abounded as juniors participated in sports, play productions and school organizations. They sponsored the prom, "Gone With the Wind," while the juniors' parents organized the after-prom.

Selling cokes, juniors raise money for the junior-senior prom.

Bob Hilton receives a rap on the head from Randy Laroche as Guy Greenlee watches the action.

Sophomores

Second year residents of HC, began to feel a part of high school life. Actively involved in all aspects of school activities, sophs discover new responsibilities and challenges. The class project was selling popcorn at home basketball games.

Towering toward seniority are soph officers Brenda Nash, pres.; Janee Keegan, vice-pres.; Connie Little, sec.; and Gina King, treas.

Spirit abounds as Carol Brownfield and Jerri Slater sign posters.

Gwen Snyder 'grooves' to "The Bossmen."

Driven by thirst, Phil Personette finds his prayers answered.

Freshmen

Stashing vice-pres. Gregg Migaki in the trash are freshmen officers Lou Ann Anderson, secretary, Dan Zuerner, president, and Carol Piety, treasurer.

Tina Peoples and Jon Burns satisfy a sweet tooth.

Toasting a team victory, exuberant frosh take a swig of the "spirits."

When school opened in September, returning students found Honey Creek overrun with frosh. Although they would be Bees for only one year, they took an active part in clubs and school functions.

Several freshmen interested in great books of the world formed a new discussion group in October. The group met after school and provided an informal atmosphere of critical analysis.

Behold the turtle!
He makes progress only,
when he sticks his neck out.

CONCEIT may puff a man up, but never props him up.

If you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem.

By doubting we come at the truth.

We keep the faults of others before our eyes; our own behind our backs!

Man is his own worst enemy.

The greatest fault, I should say, is to be conscious of none.

No man was ever great by imitation.

I think, therefore I am!

Reach out for someone . . .
To communicate is the beginning of understanding

To know ourself diseased,
Is half our cure

Discontent is the first step, in the progress of a man or a nation.

We would like to express our appreciation and thanks to Mr. Bill Lundwall of Adkins-Burnham studio, our advisers, Mr. Robert Arnett and Mr. Robert Davidson, and the teachers and students of Honey Creek for their patient understanding.

Reflections . . .
of the many . . .
who are one

Students of Honey Creek

It is hoped,
that these pages have captured
the excitement of a winning game,
the traditions of a joyous homecoming,
the exuberance of a club initiation
. . . the warmth of friendship

The SPIRIT staff
attempted to preserve,
the many faces of competition, the tense moments before a final
. . . the exciting and routine memories of high school

If years from now, you discover
we have helped to preserve time,
we have done our job

Spirit Staff
